

WELFARE OFFICIALS
TO INSPECT CAMP*Council Members To Visit
Civitanian on Tuesday.

Representatives of character-building agencies for Atlanta boys and girls, who are touring Georgia camps under the sponsorship of the Social Welfare Council, are scheduled to visit Camp Civitanian Tuesday, it was announced yesterday.

The announcement was made by Mrs. E. M. Kahn, chairman of the camp visitation committee of the Social Welfare Council, who said the tour began Wednesday. Other members of the committee include Mrs. Wright Bryan, Girl Scouts; Mrs. J. C. Malone, Camp Fire Girls; Mrs. Frank J.

Henry, Y. W. C. A., and L. E. Mansfield, Boy Scouts.

The tour will include a visit to Camp Highland, conducted by the Y. W. C. A., on July 8, and to the Bert Adams Camp for Boy Scouts on July 22.

CITY TO WEIGH SALE OF BURGLAR ALARMS

Sale of the Atlanta police burglar alarm system will be considered by the police committee tonight.

Mayor Hartsfield, a member of the committee, said a number of bids for the system has already been received and probably will be opened. The system was installed several years ago and has been maintained by the city. Hartsfield favored its sale because of the maintenance expense. Atlanta merchants yesterday asked the mayor to aid in allowing City Detective Sterling Gresham to continue work with the Atlanta Merchants' Mutual Protective Association as well as for the city. Alderman G. Dan Bridges, chairman of the police committee, recently asked Chief M. A. Hornsby to investigate Gresham holding two jobs at the same time.

MOUNTAIN STILL SEIZED. ROME, Ga., July 1.—A still filled with huckleberry mash and ready for a "run" was seized and destroyed this week on Kincaid mountain, in Floyd county, by United States Deputy Marshal Sid White and County Officers Hardy White and Frank Burton.

WATER AT WHOLESALE DENIED APARTMENTS

Petition of apartment house owners to be put on a wholesale water rate by the city was ad-versed by the water committee when Zode Smith, head of the water works, reported the change would mean higher, not lower, charges for water.

A score of owners signed the petition, requesting that water be furnished their apartment houses on the same rate paid by a manufacturer. Smith said "my investigation shows that 71 per cent of the apartment houses in the city would have to pay more under this rate than under the present residential rate. Only the largest apartment houses in the city would benefit by the change."

NEW ROTARY LEADER. ATHENS, Ga., July 1.—D. Weaver Bridges completes his term of office as president of the Athens Rotary Club this week and will be succeeded by S. H. Nickerson, who recently returned from the International Rotary convention in Europe.

THREE MEALS A DAY

HOME TESTED RECIPES

BY Sally Sawyer

July Fourth! Let's celebrate and fall into step with the nation of wilderness wanderers, get back to nature with a basketful of sandwiches, pickles, olives, potato salad and other good things to eat. Outdoor appetites need stimulating food and plenty of it as the freshness of the air and the atmosphere of the surroundings is a natural incentive to the appetite and the picnic meal is often preceded by a swim, a walk in the woods, or some other form of exercise, an ideal combination that can and should be enjoyed often by all families.

Clip the following picnic guide and see if it won't help you, not only in planning for the fourth, but in packing picnic baskets all during the summer months:

Cook on the spot dishes: Cheese cubes wrapped in bacon. Cube steaks spread with mustard. Cubed smoked ham. Hamburger patties. Frankfurters. Bacon and eggs.

Prepare at home dishes: Potato salad, add cooked weiners. Baked noodles with veal. Spanish rice. Chili in casserole. Spaghetti with meat balls. Baked beans. Kidney bean salad. Mixed vegetable salad. Mixed fruit salad. Deviled eggs. Macaroni salad—vary by adding one of the following—tuna fish, salmon, shrimp.

Condiments and relishes: Chili sauce. Ketchup. Pickles. Relish. Mustard. Celery salt. Onion salt. Olives.

Fruits and vegetables: Cabbage with pineapple. Mixed fruits with jello. Small fresh tomatoes. Small green onions. Lettuce rolls. Celery. Radishes. Fresh fruits.

Sandwich spreads: Cream cheese, flavored with dates and nuts, olives and nuts, pimiento, crushed pineapple, fruit preserves. Ground or sliced cold meats. Grapenuts and hard cooked eggs. Cottage cheese, cucumber and pineapple. Bacon and hard cooked eggs. Peanut butter ham spread.

The following sandwich spread is one that is sure to gain great favor. A combination of favorites that has unusually good storing qualities.

Ham-Peanut Butter Spread. One cup boiled ham (ground). One-half cup peanut butter. Six tablespoons chopped sweet pickle.

Mayonnaise. Combine ingredients, using enough mayonnaise to make a

If you plan to have a Fourth of July supper, or a table of bridge, the following menu might be of assistance:

Fish Salad Supreme.

2-3 cup shrimps, diced.

1-2 cup crabmeat.

1-2 cup canned tuna.

1 cup diced celery.

2 tablespoons chopped pickles.

1-3 teaspoon salt.

1-4 teaspoon paprika.

1 tablespoon lemon juice.

2-3 cup stiff mayonnaise.

2 hard-cooked eggs, quartered.

Pimiento strips.

Mix and chill the fish, celery, pickles, juice, salt, paprika and half the mayonnaise. Arrange on crisp lettuce and top with remaining mayonnaise. Garnish with eggs and pimientos.

Cheese Bars.

4 slices white bread.

2 tablespoons butter.

1-3 cup grated cheese.

1-8 teaspoon salt.

1-8 teaspoon paprika.

1 tablespoon mayonnaise.

Place bread on a flat surface.

Spread with rest of the ingredients, combined. Cut into one-inch strips and toast. Serve warm.

Lemon Ice Cream.

2-3 cup lemon juice.

1-3 teaspoon grated lemon rind.

2 cups granulated sugar.

2 cups milk.

2 cups thin cream.

1-8 teaspoon salt.

Soak juice, rind and sugar 10 minutes. Slowly add rest of the ingredients and freeze by the regular freezer method until the cream is stiff. This cream is improved in flavor if it is allowed to "ripen" two hours after it is frozen.

Sugar Wafers.

3 egg yolks.

1 cup granulated sugar.

1 cup pastry flour.

1 teaspoon baking powder.

1-4 teaspoon salt.

1 teaspoon vanilla.

1-4 teaspoon lemon extract.

1 teaspoon cinnamon.

3 egg whites, beaten.

Beat yolks and sugar. Add rest of the ingredients. Mix lightly and pour into a well-greased shallow pan. Bake 20 minutes in a moderate oven. Serve plain or sprinkled with brown sugar.

It is estimated that there is enough ice stored up in the polar regions to raise the sea level more than 100 feet, if it should all melt and pour into the sea.

SAFETY LAW TO RULE

SAVANNAH MOTORISTS

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 1.—(P)—The city law requiring automobiles to be inspected and pronounced correct on certain main features, technically went into effect today. John E. Foy, commissioner of police, announced it would be necessary to delay enforcement a few days, however, until city council authorized local garages and auto agencies to conduct the inspections.

The law requires good brakes, lights and steering mechanism. The inspection certificates certify the condition of the car. Violation of the law is punishable by a fine of $100 or imprisonment for 30 days, either or both, or part thereof.

"TRADE AT THE BIG STORE"

BODY OF TRAIN VICTIM

FOUND IN 3 COUNTIES

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., July 1. (P)—A man, killed last night by a Chesapeake & Ohio freight, was identified today by Newport News police as Johnny Hines, about 35, of Richmond.

His severed head was found caught in the under framework of a freight car when the train reached here last night. The trunk was found about a half mile from Roxbury station in Charles City county this morning, and Sheriff M. D. Lampkin, of Charles City, said he was informed that Henrico police found the legs in that county.

LUCKIE CAR SERVICE

SLATED FOR STUDY

Satisfaction of Street's Residents and Techwood Section Sought.

Controversy over proposed abandonment of the Luckie street car line remained unsettled yesterday when the public works committee again referred to proposition to a committee for study.

Power company officials asked to abandon the street car, which operates on a 15-minute schedule, and to substitute a bus line through Techwood on a 7 1/2-minute schedule. Residents and property owners of Luckie street objected. Councilman George Lyle, chairman of the committee, appointed Alderman Robert Carpenter and Councilman John A. White to work out a route with power company officials which will satisfy Luckie street residents as well as Techwood.

FOUR MEN ARE KILLED

IN RAILROAD WRECK

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., July 1.—(P)—The death list rose to four today in the wreck of a Norfolk & Western freight train.

James Ball, brakeman, died in a hospital a few hours after the body of 23-year-old Clark Maxey was found in the blazing wreckage.

Maxey apparently was caught by the plummeting train as he walked under the trestle en route home last night. Engineer W. W. Snead and Fireman Ezra McHaffa also were killed. The big locomotive plunged from an 180-foot trestle last night and exploded on the ground below.

Mother-in-Law Boils Case

Reported by Physician

WASHINGTON, July 1.—(P)—A case of "mother-in-law" boils was reported today to the United States Public Health Service.

Dr. Karl A. Menninger, of Topeka, Kan., said in a report to the Health Officer, publication of the service, that he had recently treated a young married woman who broke out with severe boils every time her mother-in-law came to see her.

They disappeared immediately after she left, he added. "This psychological phenomenon, unrecognized by most physicians, Dr. Menninger said, causes 'actual, visible tissue-destructive injuries' which are the result of suggestion alone.

65 MILLION TENANT AID RISE REFUSED

Administration Overwhelms Amendment Made by Connally.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—(P)—The senate refused today to make a $65,000,000 increase in a proposed three-year outlay to help tenants become farm owners. Administration supporters overwhelmed an amendment by Senator Connally, Democrat, Texas, to make $150,000,000 available instead of the $85,000,000 approved by President Roosevelt.

The Texas declared it is a "sad practice" for the senate to bow to the President's wishes. "The President can veto this bill if he doesn't like it," he exclaimed. "It's our duty to legislate."

"We spent $300,000,000 on the Resettlement Administration and they didn't settle anything. We have just voted $1,500,000,000 for relief and now it is proposed to spend only $10,000,000 to repair the nation's social fabric."

Senator Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama, author of the pending measure, said the expenditure would be "only a demonstration, but at least a start."

'GONE WITH THE WIND' SEEN AS TOP FILM

'Draw' Expected to Exceed 'Birth of Nation.'

The motion picture version of "Gone With the Wind" should top the box office draw of "The Birth of a Nation," Milton C. Moore, Jacksonville theater owner and president of the Southeastern Theater Owners' Association, said here yesterday.

Moore, who paused here with Mrs. Moore en route to Jacksonville for the annual convention of his organization in Birmingham this week, suggested a federal arbitration board be created to settle disputes between film producers and theater owners.

He declared such a board "would be the sole remedy for conditions facing theater owners, with respect to preferential tactics by film producers in booking of outstanding pictures." Moore is native of Gainesville, and was associated with theaters here for many years.

FATHER-IN-LAW HELD IN BARTOW SLAYING

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., July 1.—Jim Haney, 50, tonight was held in the Bartow county jail here pending grand jury investigation of the recent slaying of his son-in-law, Robert Davis. He was found working near Valley Head, Ala., and returned here early today by Deputies Powell and Sexton.

The shooting, which occurred last week at Davis' farm home near here, was said by Sheriff Gaddis to have been the outgrowth of ill feeling between the men since Davis married a daughter of Haney about two months ago.

'Fire Fighting' est One Is Visitor to Atlanta
Tom C. Haney, who says he was "as fire fighting a fireman as any who ever fought a fire in Atlanta," was a visitor here yesterday.

The veteran fireman, who was a member of the city's first paid fire department and who recently was retired as chief of the Jacksonville fire department, dropped around to Station No. 1, where he and "some of the boys" spun yarns of their experiences here.

He was a fireman for 44 years and is now 76. He left the Atlanta fire department in 1892 and moved to Jacksonville where later he became chief. He was retired in 1926, but requested reporters to be sure and say "my retirement was compulsory as I had reached the age of 65."

The Kimball House fire of August 12, 1893, was the most spectacular fire he recalled.

CHILDREN'S HOMES GOING UNDER CODE

Minimum Standards Fixed for Agencies and State Welfare Department.

Georgia's 37 homes for children will be operated in accordance to a code of minimum standards recently adopted by representatives of child care agencies and the State Department of Welfare, it was announced yesterday.

Emphasis will be placed on the family groups in these homes instead of segregating boys and girls in dining rooms, the ruling provided.

Other standards will be observed as follows:
One staff member will be provided for every 12 or 15 children.

Superintendents will be trained in child welfare work.

Admissions will be approved by the superintendent after a social worker has investigated the need for institutional service.

Children will not be dismissed on the basis of physical age requirements, but according to ability to make their own way.

One shower or tub and one toilet will be provided for each group of 12 children.

Members of the staff will not have better food than the children.

RECORD HIGH, LOW MERCURY READINGS REPORTED OVER U. S.

Indiana City Notes 48 Degree Minimum; 112 at Yuma, Arizona.

CHICAGO, July 1. — (AP) — Sharply contrasting conditions, marked by midsummer heat in some sections and the chill of autumn in others, mottled the nation's weather map today.

Fort Wayne, Ind., reported a record low for the date, a minimum of 48 degrees. San Diego, Cal., experienced its warmest July 1 with a reading of 83. A torrid top of 112 was registered at Yuma, Ariz.

Two abnormal factors, hot and dry drouth weather in western Canada and the spread of black rust in the United States, prompted traders on the Chicago Board of Trade to bid up wheat prices to the allowable limits. Wheat futures here closed 4 7-8 to 7 5-8 above yesterday's finish while corn advanced 2 7-8 to 3 1-2 cents under the impetus of alarm over the threats to the crops.

The freak spell was epitomized by 95-100-degree temperatures in Kansas and subnormal temperatures scaling down to 49 at Arcadia in neighboring Missouri.

Generally fair weather was expected to bring higher readings in the eastern portion of the mid-west.

RIVERS' CONDITION IMPROVES GREATLY

The appointments are expected about July 15. Meanwhile, Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools, who now is in Detroit, is expected here for a conference with the Governor. This conference is expected some time the latter part of next week.

Visit Is Limited. Spivey, Harris, Reid and Musgrove spent only a few minutes with the Governor on their visits today and the chief executive's physicians emphasized the fact that he must have continued quiet and no visitors except those whose presence is demanded. A number of former Georgians now living in this area have called at the hospital but they were refused admittance to the Governor's sick room. Physicians said it would be a week or ten days before any visitors are permitted and then they will allow only persons making personal calls and will not permit the transaction of any business which might upset the Governor.

Dr. Herbert B. Kennedy, of Omaha, who has been assisting on the Governor's case, will leave tomorrow for Omaha. Dr. H. J. Strathearn, of Los Angeles, and Dr. J. J. Singer, of St. Louis, will remain with the Governor.

Staff Issues Bulletin. The medical staff issued the following bulletin on the Governor's condition today:

"A complete X-ray examination today revealed considerable improvement in the chest. Fluid has disappeared. Pains in gall bladder have subsided. Some toxicity still remains. Temperature, pulse and respirations are approaching normal."

Dr. Kennedy said his departure for Omaha was necessary but gave Mrs. Rivers assurance that he believes the Governor well on the way to recovery.

Speaker Harris said his view on the Governor's condition was much brighter than yesterday.

"He is still quite sick," the speaker said. "But we are convinced that care and rest will mend him rapidly."

M. Jeffers, her attorney, explained.

Alma won her decree on the cross-bill which was filed for her Monday in answer to her husband's original divorce petition. She was awarded "complete control, care and custody" of their child, a boy born last December.

Honeycutt's petition, which had charged Alma with "cruel and inhuman treatment," was dismissed when he failed to appear in court.

"I Still Love Him." The young mother told about her elopement with Harold in January, 1936.

"I lacked a month being 13 years old," she declared.

In answer to a question, Alma declared:

"I still love him and still want to live with him."

Radio Patrolman J. C. Tanner, one of the officers to arrive at the Duke home after the shooting, testified that Mrs. Bridges told him "there had been an accidental shooting."

Neighbors testified that Mrs. Duke had been ill recently and that Duke had lost sleep lately.

Other survivors of the boy include his grandmother, Mrs. Viola Partee, of Cummings, Ga.

Final rites for young Waldrop will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of Awtry & Lowndes, with the Rev. S. F. Lowe officiating. Burial will be in East View cemetery.

for safeguarding nonintervention in the Spanish civil war.

They said that when the London subcommittee meets again tomorrow, the Reich's position against a Franco-British patrol of the Spanish coast would be unaltered.

Wilhelmstrasse circles contended that "the initiative for a new and better control system rests primarily with England and France."

They concurred with newspaper suggestions that both parties be recognized as belligerents and expressed the hope that then, "through the international law of neutrality, the principle of nonintervention might perhaps be saved."

Centinela park, attacked and strangled to death.

Dow insisted he was in Arizona last Saturday. Although one woman claimed he resembled the mysterious "Eddie, the Sailor," who is sought as the slayer, two park attendants declared there was no resemblance.

Two new suspects were taken into custody early tonight as suspected degenerates but police said there was no tangible evidence to link them with the triple murder.

Investigators regarded as one of their most important clues a crumpled paper candy bag bearing four blurred fingerprints. The bag was found under the body of Madeline, offering mute evidence that the killer had lured the girls to their deaths with candy.

The paper sack was traced to a chain company drug store in Inglewood, where, it was said, the candy had been sold as a "special" last Friday and Saturday.

Brief and simple funeral services were held today for Jeanette Stephens, 8, one of the victims. Tomorrow a double service will be held for the other victims—Melba Everett, 9, and her sister, Madeline, 7.

NEW COURT BILL GOES TO CONGRESS

there are four members of the court past 75.

The original Roosevelt bill provided for immediate appointment of a new justice for each one serving past 70 years of age.

Under the original bill any increase in the court's size would be permanent, but the compromise provides that the court shall drop back to nine justices when the older ones retire.

20 Low Court Judges. Instead of authorizing appointment of 50 new lower court judges, the substitute would fix the maximum at 20, and make the increase temporary, instead of permanent, legislators said.

A major addition to the substitute proposal, they added, will be a section providing for speedy appeal to the supreme court of lower court decisions involving the constitutionality of federal laws.

Such a change was proposed by President Roosevelt in his message to congress February 5, but the bill he sent along with it contained no such provision.

Democratic Leader Robinson, of Arkansas, said the new bill would be ready for introduction tomorrow.

INCOME SPLITTING SAVES $1,750,000

$500,000 gift tax on the $1,500,000 that went into the trusts.

"That looks to me like a pretty sizeable tax," the Kentuckian remarked.

In the midst of Bruton's discussion of various methods of employing trust funds to reduce tax liability, Undersecretary Roswell Magill, of the treasury, said a legislative "plug" for this revenue loophole is being devised. It would eliminate exemptions allowed personal trusts, he said.

Exemption of $1,000. Each trust now may take a $1,000 exemption.

Some members of the congressional committee on alleged tax evasion and avoidance told reporters they believe it might be wise to wipe out the separate tax entity of individual trusts. Vinson said it might be well to provide only a single $1,000 exemption for the beneficiary of a trust, or series of trusts.

When Representative Crowther, Republican, New York, suggested there had been "negligence on the part of the treasury" in failing to call "contentious" cases to the attention of congress earlier, Magill replied:

"Of course, the reason we are bringing them in now is because of the increased use of the devices which is costing us a great deal of revenue."

Blaustein Case Illustrative. Bruton said the Blaustein case is illustrative of trusts "created for purposes of reducing taxes on capital gains."

By another type—reciprocal trusts—usually created between husbands and wives for the other's benefit—he said Robert A. Stranahan, of Perrysburg, Ohio, and his brother, Frank D. Stranahan, of Perrysburg, Ohio, and their wives, saved $701,227 in 1932, 1933 and 1934. He listed 46 trusts for them.

Robert Stranahan, it was said, was president of the Champion Spark Plug Company, of Toledo, and Frank Stranahan its vice president.

Bruton also testified Mrs. Greenville Clark, wife of a New York attorney, saved about $90,000 last year by a third kind of trust—those created by parents for minor children.

A similar arrangement, he said, enabled Martin F. Tiernan, of Essex Falls, N. J., and Charles F. Wallace, of Westfield, N. J., associated in the distribution of water purifying equipment, to save a total of $611,328 in 1935 and 1936.

JAPANESE CHARGE NEW RED INVASION

HSINGKING, Manchoukuo, July 2. — (Friday) — (AP) — The Japanese army charged today Russia had repeated her invasion of Manchoukuoan territory.

Authorities at this capital of the Japanese-inspired state immediately began discussion of forceable means to cope with the situation.

The Japanese army charged three Soviet airplanes circled low over Sunnufu Island Thursday afternoon and disappeared in an unknown direction.

Simultaneously, the army declared, five Soviet gunboats illegally entered Manchoukuoan waters.

An electric atmosphere prevails throughout all Manchoukuo.

islands, possession of which means control of the river.

Shigemitsu, the communiqué declared, "promised to study the proposal and resume negotiations."

The United States' official interest in the Far Eastern crisis was shown in a visit to Shigemitsu by Joseph E. Davies, American ambassador, yesterday. Davies expressed hope the trouble would not develop further and sought from his Japanese colleague the latest information.

Reds Unruffled. The Soviet government intimated it regards the situation less seriously than does Japan, although it was pointed out there was no guarantee against further incidents.

Shigemitsu disclosed he raised two points at his two-hour meeting with Soviet Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff today:

1. He protested vigorously against what Japan held to be an invasion of Manchoukuoan waters by Soviet gunboats.

2. He emphasized Japan's insistence on removal of Soviet troops from the islands of Sennufu and Bolshoi in the Amur.

Shigemitsu said Litvinoff rejected

ed the Japanese protest over the hostilities although the Japanese intimated there might be "very serious" consequences if the Russian forces were not evacuated from the islands.

'KEEP OFF-OR' WARNING IS HURLED AT RUSSIA

TOKYO, July 2. — (Friday) — (AP) — The Manchoukuo government was reported in a dispatch from Hsingkin, today to have served a peremptory warning on Russia to keep to the main navigation route on the Amur river or risk "drastic measures."

The warning said: "If your country's gunboats deviate from the main navigation route of the Amur river in the neighborhood of Sennufu, Bolshoi and Shatzukoukuo islands and operate on the waterway belonging to Manchoukuo, we shall be compelled to resort to drastic measures of self-defense."

Earlier the Japanese cabinet had taken the stand that peaceful settlement of yesterday's clash on the Amur, about 75 miles southeast of Blagoveshchensk, was impossible unless Russia had withdrawn its forces from the trouble zone.

Japanese reports also indicated Soviet troops remained in occupation of Sennufu and near-by Bolshoi island, disputed sandpits in the winding Amur, which forms the northeastern border between Soviet Siberia and Manchoukuo, Japan's protectorate.

Emperor Hirohito took a hand in the crisis by summoning Admiral Mistumasa Yonai, minister of the navy, to give an account of Manchurian developments, presumably based on secret army and navy dispatches not made public.

From both sides the frontier came reports of military movements. Japanese newspapers said the Russians had mobilized some 300,000 men of their Far Eastern army, supported by huge forces of airplanes, tanks and armored cars.

(The figures given are approximately those of the total red army strength in the Soviet Far East.)

ROOSEVELT GREET'S NEIGHBOR TO NORTH ON 70TH 'BIRTHDAY'

President Says Canadian Friendship 'Secure From Every Hazard.'

HYDE PARK, N. Y., July 1.—(P)—President Roosevelt declared tonight American-Canadian friendship was "secure from every hazard of destruction or misunderstanding," because it was based on a common aspiration to maintain the "Democratic form of constitutional, representative government."

Saluting Canada on its seven-tieth anniversary of confederation, the President, in a radio address from his Hyde Park home, again referred to the "enviable record" of friendship and amity between the two countries.

Canada Reciprocates.

Replying to the President's Dominion Day greeting, Lord Tweedsmuir, the Canadian governor-general said, "Canada is an old country; as a territorial unit she is older than the United States, older even than New England or Virginia, but the United States became a federated people nearly a century before us, and thereby set us an example."

Lord Tweedsmuir, who spoke by radio from the British cruiser York in Quebec harbor, said the United States and Canada were marching "in the same direction towards the same goal," and added that he hoped "that more and more we shall come to pool our ideas about the problems of the world."

TROPICS EXPLORER TELLS ATLANTA HOW TO BEAT HEAT!

Dr. W. E. Aughinbaugh, famous medical authority and jungle explorer says: "I beat the heat by drinking tea. Exploring jungles takes vitality and vigor, and that's why explorers always carry tea and plenty of it. There's nothing like tea to get you cool, and keep you feeling that way!"

DOCTORS say: "The difference between tea and other so-called cooling drinks is this: Tea is more than a thirst-quencher. Tea actually LOWERS body temperature. Its cooling effect is more LASTING." Iced tea is VITALIZING and DELICIOUS in the bargain.

To get the full delicious FLAVOR and vitality from tea, select a good brand of Orange Pekoe from India, Ceylon, and Java-Sumatra.

City Clerk May Sign 'Copies of Charges'

Copies of charges, those little bits of paper which remind you to "tell it to the judge," will no longer bear the name of the mayor of Atlanta. If council adopts an ordinance amendment approved yesterday by the ordinance and legislation committee. The committee yesterday voted to eliminate the words, "bear test in the name of the mayor" and to substitute the name of the city clerk instead. Alderman J. Glover Hailey, chairman, said it was the only paper the ordinance committee considered.

NEUTRALITY LAW HIT BEFORE EDUCATORS

Closing N. E. A. Session Told
"Danger, Injustice Lurks in Policy."

DETROIT, July 1.—(P)—Raymond Leslie Buell, of New York, president of the Foreign Policy Association, urged a course of "positive action with like-minded powers" upon the United States tonight as "the only way to reconcile the security of the United States with the American sense of justice."

He spoke at the closing session of the National Education Association, ending its largest convention since 1931. N. E. A. officials said 8,600 educators registered for the 1937 meeting.

Buell said "danger and injustice" lurked in the United States' "so-called neutrality policy" in its application to the war in Spain. The Spanish government, he pointed out, "cannot buy arms in this country, but the Fascist powers, guilty of invading Spain, can."

The representative assembly voiced approval of WPA educational projects and requested their continuance.

The assembly also abolished the office of life director. The action removes 12 members from the board. Dr. Woodruff is president of the Vermont State Normal School. She succeeds Orville C. Pratt, Spokane, Wash.

Andrew Avery, Bainbridge, Ga., was one of 11 vice presidents elected.

Three new members elected to the executive committee are Mrs. Myrtle Hooper Dahl, Minneapolis; R. T. Shaw, Philadelphia, and David A. Van Burkirk, Hastings, Mich. There were six other hold-over members.

Telling Cousin All About Trip Across U. S.

Constitution Staff Photo—Slayton. "A nice man on the train gave this to me," says June Rose Brinkley, to her cousin, Rose Wynne, while Ginger, the doll, and Susie, the cat, look on with interest. June Rose came all the way from California by herself to visit relatives here.

Child, 10, Travels Across Nation Alone for Visit to Relatives Here

June Rose Brinkley Comes From California Without Misadventure; Likes Journey Except for Those Lonely Nights in Sleeper, She Carefully Explains.

June Rose Brinkley, aged 10 years, traveled alone all the way from California to Atlanta, by train three days and three nights, and recognized relatives whom she had never seen before, when they met her at the Terminal station yesterday.

"I knew my cousin Rose right away," June Rose explained yesterday, "because she looks exactly like her pictures, and Aunt Rose was with her, so I recognized them both."

Recognition Is Mutual.

Her aunt, Mrs. R. J. Wynne, and her little cousin, Rose Wynne, of 1023 Juniper street, had no trouble recognizing the little visitor, when they met the train, for June Rose came tripping along by herself, with a porter right behind her carrying a big suitcase.

The little girl from California said that she did not mind traveling alone except at night. "I did feel lonesome when it came time to go to bed," she confessed. "During the day everyone on the train talked to me, and kept me company, but at night they all went to bed, so I had to go, too."

June Rose took her doll, Ginger, to bed with her, and the little girl said that she does not know what she would have done without her. "Ginger is awfully good in the sleeper listening to the wheels singing. 'Here comes a bridge, here comes a bridge. Hold on tight.'"

Don't Care for 'Em.

June Rose does not like bridges; in fact, she wishes she could get back to California without crossing a single bridge.

One man on the train gave the little girl a cat that works on a string, and June Rose likes that the best of anything she saw on her trip.

She will visit relatives here until September, when she will make the trip alone back to California. She will spend some of her time with her grandmother, Mrs. M. R. Brinkley, and her aunt, Miss Eva Brinkley, of 304 Sycamore street, Decatur.

Her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Brinkley, once lived in Atlanta, but now reside in Eagle Rock, Cal.

TVA ASKS DENIAL OF UTILITY BRIEF

Review of Injunction Petition Is Sought.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—(UP)—TVA attorneys today asked the United States supreme court to refuse to review a petition by the Georgia Power Company to enjoin the power project's activities in Georgia.

The TVA brief asked the court to reject the utility's petition for a writ of certiorari for a review of a previous lower court decision in which Georgia Power was defeated.

The case involves dispute over jurisdiction of rival United States district courts. On April 30, 1936, the utility requested an injunction preventing TVA from constructing a power line across one of its own and a permanent injunction prohibiting TVA expansion into north Georgia.

A United States district court at Atlanta rejected the petition, but the power company won an injunction in a Tennessee federal court.

At TVA request, the Atlanta court ordered the company to cease pressing the case since the Georgia court claimed prior jurisdiction. This contention was upheld by the first circuit court of appeals at New Orleans. Georgia Power now is seeking to win a reversal of the circuit decision in the supreme court.

GROUP PLAY CITED AS NEED OF NATION

Recreation Leaders Continue Discussion of Needs in Athens.

ATHENS, Ga., July 1.—(P)—Delegates to the second annual recreation conference turned to recreation themselves tonight after hearing Mrs. Lucy B. McIntire, of Savannah, assert in an address, "If any nation is going to live, is going to be great, it must have people working and playing in groups."

Mrs. McIntire, supervisor of the women's service and professional projects at Savannah, led a discussion of "Social and Health Values From Recreation."

Reason for Wanderers.

She told the conference, sponsored by the University of Georgia, "We recreational people have got to fill the leisure time of our people with profit, with interest, with satisfaction. The most potent reason for the army of bitter, disillusioned youth wandering over the continent today is that the young people of the nation are not anchored with a deep love to any place or thing."

The delegates were guests tonight at a dinner, presided over by Jack Frost, of the University of Georgia, and will close their conference tomorrow.

NYA Program Aims.

Dillard B. Lasseter, of Atlanta, state director of the National Youth Administration, declared recreation to boys and girls under the NYA program meant "a chance to work and earn their own living."

Others on the program were Miss Fanny B. Shaw, of the National Tuberculosis Association, New York city, and August Fischer, director of recreation, WPA, at Atlanta.

The delegates were welcomed to the University of Georgia campus today by Dr. E. D. Fussey, director of summer school conferences.

State problems in the recreation field will be discussed tomorrow by Miss Gay Shepperson, state WPA administrator.

CORDELE DISPATCH REVISES ITS SET-UP

Miss Marian Brown Is Publisher, Mother Is Editor.

CORDELE, Ga., July 1.—The Cordele Dispatch today appeared under a new executive set-up and with a new masthead and changes in its typography.

Miss Marian Brown, daughter of the late Charles E. Brown, founder of the Dispatch and its editor until his death seven years ago, today became publisher. Her mother, Mrs. Charles E. Brown, retains the editorial chair she has held since the death of her husband.

Norman Chalker, recently graduated from the Henry W. Grady School of Journalism at the University of Georgia, became news editor with today's issue.

The change in the executive personnel of the paper followed settlement of the Brown estate. It was operated under an administrator until the eldest heir came of age.

MACONITE RECOVERING FROM POISON DOSE

MACON, Ga., July 1.—(P)—Marshall Daugherty, young sculptor, was reported recovering tonight from the effects of poison, taken accidentally in the belief it was medicine.

Harrison Daugherty, superintendent of the Masonic Home, said his son took the poison yesterday afternoon just before leaving for a swimming party, thinking it was medicine he had been taking for several days for a stomach disorder.

Physicians said Daugherty was in no danger unless complications arose. He returned home from the hospital today but is still under care of physicians.

ATLANTA, GA., JULY 2, 1937.

THE EXTRA SESSION

The announcement by Governor Rivers that no extra session of the Georgia legislature will be held before fall, unless unforeseen emergency arises, assures that the revision of Georgia's antiquated tax system will not be undertaken until the members of the assembly have had ample opportunity to study tax systems in other states.

There is a special committee from both houses now engaged on a survey of the tax systems in vogue in a number of other states. After their return from this tour their findings will be transmitted to the entire membership of the Georgia legislature. Careful study of this report will prove invaluable when the extra session, now planned for the fall, convenes.

Business in Georgia is, naturally, anxious to know what form the new taxes will take. Until this is known there is a degree of uncertainty that is unavoidable.

Business as a whole has always demonstrated its ability to surmount any hurdle placed in its path, and whatever form the new system for Georgia takes it will not prove an unquarable barrier. That much is certain.

Great care must be exercised in the adoption of a tax classification system under which intangibles will be expected to assume their fair share of the burden of government support. Hitherto, the great bulk of this type of property, faged with a tax rate under Georgia's archaic system which amounted practically to confiscation, has not appeared in the tax digests. The legislature, in deciding upon a rate of taxation which will be large enough to equalize the tax load between real property and intangibles and at the same time not so heavy that it will drive capital and investments out of the state, must proceed with utmost caution. They must strike the happy medium which will automatically bring about the desired result.

The state is faced with a shortage of revenue, largely caused by the failure of the voters to approve prohibition repeal and the substitution of a licensed control system for liquor, which will necessitate the imposition of additional taxes. This problem again calls for careful deliberation.

Business can well afford to continue its advance, confident that the legislature will tackle the tax reform problem with due regard for the interests of every citizen and every enterprise in the state.

At the same time, business may take new courage from the evidenced determination by the Governor and his advisers to devote all the time needed to advance study and a thorough understanding of the task to be undertaken before the extra session is called.

There will be no hurried enactment of insufficiently considered legislation, which decision is in itself a reassurance to all Georgia that the tax reforms to be achieved will be based upon justice to the taxpayers as a whole and with full benefit of conservatism and moderation.

UNCONTROLLED MILITARISTS

The serious clash between the armed forces of Japan and Russia along the Amur river again emphasizes the grave threat to the peace not only of the Far East, but of the world, contained in the provision of the Japanese constitution which makes the army and navy of that nation independent of the diplomatic branch of the government.

The islands in the Amur river, which forms part of the boundary line between Manchoukou and Russian Siberia, have long been a source of dispute between the Japanese-dominated state of Manchoukou and the Russians, despite the fact that these narrow strips of land have little or no real or strategic value.

Both Manchoukou and Russia have claimed the islands and for many months the foreign offices of the Japanese, Manchoukouan and Russian governments have sought a basis on which the dispute could be permanently adjusted. Only a few days ago it was announced that an agreement had been reached whereby the armed forces of all three nations would be withdrawn, leaving the islands as a kind of no man's land.

No sooner, however, had the diplomats of the three nations achieved this apparently sound solution of the problem than the military forces of the two nations clashed. It may be that the Japanese militarists were not responsible, but, certainly, they have been guilty of deliberate aggressions in so many similar situations in the past as to lead to the suspicion that they have again taken deliberate action to undo results secured by the diplomatic branch of their government.

Less than a year ago the Hirota government in Tokyo had completed friendly and co-operative negotiations with the Chinese Nationalist government, only to have the Japanese army launch an attack against Peking on the most shallow of excuses.

One of the unfortunate phases of the present situation is that, should Russia become involved in a serious conflict with Japan, Hitler might seize the opportunity to take steps he would not dare attempt if Russia were free to throw its entire force against Germany.

Sooner or later the anomalous situation in the Japanese government which permits the militarists openly to defy the cabinet will be ended by the Japanese people themselves. When that time comes the peace of the world will be far more secure than it is now.

GEORGIA'S NEW DEAL BEGINS

The first of July marked the official inauguration of the "New Deal" for Georgia. On that date the fiscal year, changed to correspond with the federal government's fiscal year, began. New methods of improving health, security, happiness and education in Georgia began operation.

Georgia today is marching with the federal government, for the first time, in its program to bring security to all citizens, to care for those handicapped by age, sickness or misfortune and to extend a helping hand, where needed, to the men, women and children who have been "forgotten citizens" of the past.

Possibilities of enhanced human happiness in the state, under the new program, are boundless.

The program of old-age benefits, help for the blind and for dependent children is now in operation, with one-half of the funds required furnished by the federal government. This will not only provide regular monthly checks for these needy ones, but will pour into the business channels of the state a new flood of money.

Free school books for all students in the state-supported schools, with increased salaries for teachers and a revised curriculum promise a great stride forward in education. Added funds strengthen the arm of the forces working to reduce or eliminate many contagious diseases in the state and to spread the gospel of proper sanitation and health protection into every corner of every county.

Shortly there will be installed a state highway patrol, with a system of state drivers' licenses, which contains the possibility of a vast improvement in safety upon the highways of the state.

Eleemosynary institutions have been provided larger funds for their operations and new buildings are being planned in many places where needed. Higher education, through the University System of Georgia, is given greater financial support and many forward steps are being taken in the program to give young Georgians such opportunities for advanced training in their native state that the flow of youthful ability and enthusiasm away from the state will be checked.

The opportunities for a greater and a happier Georgia inherent in the new program are practically unlimited. Its success depends upon the faithfulness and efficiency of its administration. Its results can only be told when the record is finally written.

THE MARCH GOES ON

The report on business, agricultural and industrial activities in the sixth federal reserve district for May reveals a steady continuance of that improvement in practically all lines which has been the most significant phase of the new prosperity in the southeast.

Retail trade, building activity, farm income, investments, coal mining and other interests in Atlanta and Georgia and the district showed distinct advances, with a slight decline in the price of cotton practically the only adverse item.

The regular advances in all lines of material effort in the sixth district, which have been noted month by month for the past two or three years, evidence a combination of two factors in southeastern conditions of the present day.

The first is the general improvement in business and industry which, except for those localized areas where labor troubles or other unpredictable factors have disrupted normal conditions, is notable all over the nation.

The second is the increasing realization by business interests that the southeast is the logical area for industrial expansion and agricultural development. The many advantages of this area, in climate, natural resources and the dependability of the people, are, day by day, compelling recognition by industrial and financial leaders all over the world.

There is a new day of development and expansion dawning for the southeast and, in not so many years, historians will write of the present time that it marked the inauguration of a new industrial and commercial empire of this section of the United States.

WATERS OF ETHIOPIA

(From the New Orleans Times-Picayune.)

Cables from Turin say Italian engineers have reached the blueprint stage of their project to flood some of the low regions of Ethiopia and turn them into an inland lake. This would be done through a channel to the Red sea. The announcement says nothing of any plan which may have been devised to build new dams on the Blue Nile and use its waters for irrigation, as the lower Nile supplies irrigation for Egypt from the mighty Aswan project. The scheme is known to have been in Italy's mind for years, and played an important part in her conquest of Ethiopia.

As Emil Ludwig pointed out in his masterly book, "The Nile," damming the Blue, or Abyssinian, branch might have a tremendous effect upon the lower stream. Such a project has been considered by various groups, but, according to Ludwig, England saw in it disaster to Egypt. The idea is known to have played a part in the bitter sanctions discussion, and the British refusal to close the Suez canal to the transport of Italian troops and munitions. Commentators have differed on the issue, but some eminent engineers contend that the nation which controls one of the two main sources of the river always will be in a position to dictate terms to Cairo.

An American Revolution

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY.

In a democracy the government official is just a citizen. He does not usually bear such a title as "Your Excellency." He rarely wears a uniform, although that has been slightly on the increase since the war. When he goes home he is the same sort of man as his neighbor. One has a job and the other has a job.

I use the word "official" broadly to include everybody from a street cleaner up. As the functions of modern government increased, the number and variety of government employees have increased tremendously. Nevertheless, it would be far-fetched to assume that a biologist working for the Department of Agriculture is any more important per se than a biologist working for a fertilizer company. They may even be doing the same job.

Now, Mr. Lewis is to organize all these government officials, except the army, navy, postoffice and cabinet officers, into one big union which he is to control. Instead of depending for their job on the success of their civil service examinations on confirmation by the Senate a man or woman to be employed by the government will have to have a CIO membership card.

If the general CIO program is to be followed, it must be assumed that a signed contract will have to be arranged between Mr. Lewis and the President of the United States setting forth the terms of employment, etc. Would it be too bold to inquire whether it is Mr. Lewis' intention to include the closed shop and the check-off? If so, Mr. Morgenthau would have to send the CIO a check-off. If not, the sum representing deductions from the pay of these organized officials. This amount would be deducted as a fee to the union for the right to work for their own government.

The British saw this danger fully ten years ago and in the Labor Disputes Act of 1927 they included this provision:

3.—(1) Amongst the regulations as to the conditions of service in His Majesty's civil establishments there shall be included regulations prohibiting members, delegates, or representatives of any organization, of which the primary object is to influence or affect the remuneration and conditions of employment of its members, unless the organization is an organization of which the membership is confined to persons employed by or under the Crown, and is an organization which complies with such provisions as may be contained in the regulations for securing that it is in all respects independent of, and not controlled by, any such organization as is mentioned in the foregoing paragraph, and is not controlled by or under the Crown or any federation comprising such organizations, that its objects do not include political objects, and that it is not associated directly or indirectly with any political party or organization, etc., etc.

We do not have such an act. We only have the Wagner bill which never works when the country needs it, and about which Senator Wagner seems to have a confused knowledge. At any rate, as the Wagner bill is less than nothing, we might say that we have no law at all preventing John Lewis from doing to the United States government what he has done to the steel industry.

Just imagine this spectacle: The people will elect someone to succeed Franklin D. Roosevelt. John Lewis will say that the people's choice was due to coercion, intimidation, armed violence and spies. The La Follette committee will immediately start an investigation. John Lewis will announce that if the new President attempts to move into the White House, all stenographers, telephone operators, doormen and scrubwomen will go on strike.

Or let us say that Congressman Hoffman, of Michigan, makes one of his notable addresses. The elevator boys at the Capitol will be told to refuse to carry him from one floor to another—and if he insists upon being so raised, a sit-in of all employees on the Hill will take place.

Or perhaps Mr. Lewis will dislike some citizen. He will order, on pain of withdrawing the union card, every official in every department of the government, including the Department of Justice, to search the files and bring him the goods on the "madmen," as he now calls those who are on to the CIO.

What a lovely thought for the Fourth of July!

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

Life, to the man who cannot read, must be dreary. And dull indeed; For, if headlines, he can't decipher, how will he know when sin grows rife? How can he fret with empiricism if he can't read the daily crisis?

The Comfort Of Little Things.

There is a half mile walk from the end of my carline to home. Down a pleasant street of middle-class homes. With, these summer days, little family groups upon most front porches, with children playing in the yards and friendly dogs romping out to greet the passerby.

That walk is one of the day's most pleasant experiences. For it emphasizes the touch of neighborliness and casual contact that, after all, is the nicest thing we of the city live.

There are children, plenty of them, along that street. As you walk along with thoughts maybe ten thousand miles away, a child's voice will cry "Hey!" and you come back to your surroundings with a start. There is a laughing young'un grinning up at you and you say "Hey, how're you?" in response and you feel better and happier because infancy has deigned to signal you out for greeting.

From the Wheel Chair.

Across the street is a fine old character, crippled, sitting in the late afternoon sunshine in his wheel chair. He calls a cheery greeting across the pavement and you wave back a cordial "Hello, Uncle Tom."

Then a friend whom you've occasionally walked with on occasionward way speaks from his porch, where he is resting after a day's work. You respond again, with a wave and a word and swing on down the road.

There are other friends. A whippoorwill in the woods and a canary in a cage, both singing as though with utter joy.

There is, perhaps, a stranger. A fellow sitting by the side of the road waiting for a traveling Samaritan to reward the astounding patience of the hitch hiker. He speaks, in friendly tone, as you pass. Maybe he asks advice, and you tell him you think he'd stand a better chance of a hitch about half a mile down the road, opposite the beer garden where so many automobiles stop for way-side refreshment.

These Are The Contacts That Count.

In the well ordered life it is these little, daily contacts that count. With them you feel part of humanity, without them you are a morose, lonely stranger in a strange world.

It must be the lack of such incidents that makes solitary confinement so dreadful a punishment. The ordinary prisoner in a penal institution may suffer from confinement, from shame, from remorse. But, so long as he has any contact, no matter how slight, with his fellows, he is not utterly forgotten of the world, not completely alone.

The man whose nature is forbidding, whose very manner repels the friendly greetings of the child and the old man, the happy waving of a dog's tail and the purring rub against the ankles of a contented cat, is an object for pity. For he knows no casual kindness, no gentle rubbing against the clumsy friendliness of an interested and interesting world. He is as though he had encased his spirit in a shell that repulsed all warmth

General Johnson

By HUGH S. JOHNSON.

Candidate for 1940 To Remain "Up in the Air."

Fair-Haired TULSA, Okla., July 1.—It is Grade-A nonsense to be talking about hairs-apparent to the great white throne at this stage of the game.

What a sucker the President would be to trot out a successor now. It would weaken his own leadership, split his following into factions, and put his fair-haired favorite in the position of the circus lady at whom the man throws knives and hatchets—except that the political cutlery wouldn't miss.

If the President keeps 'em all guessing he can keep 'em regular. If he advances one he sends the rest off the reservation.

That same rule goes in the guessing contest about a third term. In spite of all that has been printed about Mr. Roosevelt having said he will not run again, a close inspection of what he has said reveals no such promise or even implication.

The American formula for killing a presidential boom was written clear in our history by General Sherman. "If nominated, I will not accept, if elected I will not serve." There stands the precedent. Anything less absolute will always carry the hint of a desire to be drafted for the supreme sacrifice—like Calvin Coolidge's "I do not choose to run."

American Mr. Roosevelt hasn't gone even one-tenth so far as Cal and he isn't within shouting distance of General Sherman. Here also, what a sucker he would be just now to adopt Sherman's forthright refusal. Any such morsel dropped in the pit of the present strained Democratic harmony, would have the same effect on it as a haunch of raw horse meat thrown into a cage of ravenous royal Bengal tigers. It is hard enough to keep the ranks closed without that.

Apart from what he has not said does Mr. Roosevelt ever dream of a third term? Does a dog ever dream of chasing a rabbit? Mr. Roosevelt is doubtless like any other man vaccinated with the presidential virus—whether it takes or not, it is perpetual. If, as 1940 approaches, he is sure he can get away with it, he will be "reluctantly drafted." If not, "nothing on earth could induce him" to like every other President of the past century.

The architects of the third New Deal, whoever they are, are building a form of government that argues for a third term and against an heir-apparent. It's like Cinderella's slipper that could be worn by only one foot in the kingdom. There has been a little of this ever since March 4, 1933, when Will Rogers said of the cabinet: "They've found the forgotten man. There's nine of him and one woman."

Masterful, With possibly two exceptions, no figure in the history of the United States has been allowed to rise in this administration in senate, cabinet or elsewhere able to shine by anything, but reflected light. As someone else said, "They are of such stature that, in a room crowded with them, nobody would be remembered but the President."

Unlike Lincoln, Cleveland and Teddy Roosevelt, Franklin Roosevelt has sought not the best tools, but the most subservient ones and then supplied what they lacked of energy and talent by being himself, like Mussolini, minister of everything. It has been masterful and brilliant but like the one-man empires of Charlemagne, Alexander, Napoleon, Mussolini, and Hitler—what happens when the mainspring breaks?

This tendency, already so marked, has been multiplied and intensified by the reorganization proposals for the executive and judiciary. The executive is to become more than ever the sole moving force of government. Right again, the British navy may have reached a stage of strength sufficient to take on all comers. The real secret is: where does Japan stand? Is Japan going to back Germany and Italy in the event the present crisis develops into war? Or can Britain assure Japan's neutrality by making some concession in the Far East? There is where the shoe rubs in London and the question on which hinges Britain's future attitude in the matter of Italy's and Germany's slow conquest of Spain.

Where Does Japan Stand?

Judging by past events, Duce and Fuehrer might succeed. France is innately divided. England may deem that she can stand another slap into the face so long as her fleet is not up to the point. Yet, again, the British navy may have reached a stage of strength sufficient to take on all comers. The real secret is: where does Japan stand? Is Japan going to back Germany and Italy in the event the present crisis develops into war? Or can Britain assure Japan's neutrality by making some concession in the Far East? Electric Genius.

One hundred and fifty years ago George Simon Ohm was born in Erlangen, Germany. He was 40 when he published the book that was to have tremendous influence on the whole development of the theory and applications of current electricity and to cause his name to be incorporated into the terminology of electrical science. He viewed the motion of an electric charge along a wire as entirely analogous to the flow of water through a pipe and that there must be an electrical entity comparable to the pressure or "head" that forces the water through the pipe. Thus he started electrical measurement and control.

Whatever Men Do, Nature Won't Let the Race Go to the Dogs

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

When the great war ended, people tired of being in harness, began to kick up their heels. They had endured restraint and obeyed authority until they were weary of it, and their natural reaction took the form of hell-raising.

Prophets of disaster see in mankind's present recklessness a promise of early destruction. The new generation, they are quite sure, will go to the devil and take civilization along with it.

But these prophets of gloom know little about the processes of nature. Nature has a way of caring for her own, and she doesn't permit any backsliding.

The very evils that threaten the destruction of the race are used by nature to preserve and improve it.

The good die young, according to the ancients. But precisely the opposite is true. The evil die young and the good survive to reproduce their kind.

Morality is nothing more than conforming with nature's plans. All immorality is violation of natural laws, and those who violate natural laws go early to their graves.

Alcohol and drugs and sex vices shorten life, but they do not shorten the lives of intelligent people. Intelligent people are moral people, for they realize that immorality costs a great deal more than it is worth.

The vices that destroy men destroy only the weak and foolish. They winnow the chaff from the wheat. And thus their ultimate effect is actually to improve the race.

The weak and foolish and vicious might destroy civilization in a few generations, but nature weeds them out.

The most casual student of history cannot fail to observe that the race improves with the passing of each century. It becomes more intelligent, more industrious, more decent—not only because it makes conscious effort to improve itself, but because each generation inherits the good qualities of the one before and the weaknesses and fools have less and less chance to survive.

Brains make morality; morality makes health; health makes beauty. The race improves in every way because nature saves the pick of her crop for seed.

War Menace.

NEW YORK.—With Russia definitely crippled, probably for years to come, through internal weaknesses, Hitler and Mussolini are, apparently, determined to gain some added advantage in their international position. Spain is the pretext. It is ludicrous to read the fuming editorials in the German and Italian press against "the bandits of Valencia" and "the Spanish rabble." You would think that the Spanish government had invaded Italy and Germany and was massacring German and Italian women and children.

However, everyone understands the meaning of this raving by now. Germany and Italy want something. Spain? They would like to get it, but they know they cannot. Neither France nor Britain can afford to see Spain pass into the hands of a potential enemy. This was clear from the beginning of the conflict and explains why France and Fuehrer have not openly declared war on Spain, which event the Spanish peninsula would already be in their hands.

Fascists Vs. Loyalists.

Today the two Fascist powers act as if they mean business, as if they really intend to land an expeditionary force. They have thrown a ring around Spain and are preventing supplies from reaching the Loyalists, while their warships convoy merchantmen loaded with war materials for Franco.

They dare not go in themselves, for that would mean war. They want merely to bring Europe to the brink of war. They want to be bought off. That is the game which is a game of blackmail. They are trying to bluff their way through and hope that Britain and France will compensate them elsewhere, with raw materials or colonies, for not pushing their naval demonstrations in the Mediterranean to an actual invasion of Spain.

Where Does Japan Stand?

Test Your Knowledge

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"Thou wouldst be great, art not without ambition, but without The illness should attend it. What thou wouldst highly That would thou hoily, would not play false and yet Would wrongly win..."

In the camps of capital and labor, in those of the Fascist and the Communist, in many another, the philosophy seems to be that objectives must be attained at any price, no matter how many rules are broken or standards destroyed. The great thing is to win your fight, and no holds are barred, no fouls forbidden. What people want highly they no longer want hoily. The plighted word is nothing, nor the sworn signature. The law is a thing to be followed only when it is favoring, the peace of mankind and order of civilization are not to be hoped for until your own case is won. You may sin against all the rules if you find it to your advantage to do so, and excuse yourself with the thought that your opponent has sinned as much or will do so soon.

At the end of such a road there is anarchy, chaos, the dark ages. What the world needs most at this moment is men and women who refuse to travel the road, who dare to say that the end does not justify the means, that the rules must be respected, the game played fairly.

That is what being a "liberal" once meant. A liberal was a man who understood that the only safe approach to progress is through a free and civilized play of opposing forces and that the only assurance of freedom and decency in the play is through an abiding by the rules, an obedience to the umpire, a respect for the arena. We, for one, are simple-minded enough to think that is still what liberalism means. Certainly no one is entitled to call himself a liberal now and make common cause with those who, for whatever noble or progressive purpose, are willing to ignore the rules, despite the umpire, and destroy the arena. Editor Jerome Jones, of the (Atlanta) Journal of Labor, seems to vote yes when this column wonders if it is within the province of competence of the church to determine whether a competitive or a co-operative economic system is better for the world. "Is there no room in the church for those who feel that the church does have some interest and some responsibility when it comes to the working out of economic law and economic tendencies?" he asks.

It is not unchurch-like, in Editor Jones' opinion, for the church to announce in favor of a change in the economic system. But would he consider it unchurch-like for the church to demand adherence to the present economic system without change? Probably he wouldn't. Probably he would denounce the church for interfering in a matter beyond its province and its competence. And yet there are today men as piously in favor of the existing system as there are others piously convinced of the need of a new system. In ages past the church gave its name often to support of the status quo, and was denounced for doing so. In the present age it tends to give its name to economic change. Is it not as deserving of criticism in the one instance as in the other?

Neither an allegedly competitive system like America's nor an allegedly co-operative one like Russia's has hope of being genuine and successful without traits of individual character and faith for which the church stands. The church has thus a greater task than decision between two still debatable economic theories. It has the task of instilling and maintaining in the hearts and souls of men qualities without which neither theory, nor any other, will ever work.

GOOD MORNING

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

Dr. Bascom Anthony has written a book, an autobiography I guess you'd call it, on his 50 years in the ministry; and if you want a delightful and profitable piece of summer reading, order that book today. Henry McCord loaned me the book and I went home the other night, thinking I was about ready to call it a day, and when I happened to hear the clock strike considerably past midnight I threw the book over on the table to get at least a nap before daylight.

Dr. Anthony is a philosopher and he flavors his observations with sparkling touches of wholesome humor. Take this example: "We are so wise in our conceits that we are positively stupid." I could fill this page with similar facets of common sense from the pages of this interesting and instructive autobiography of one of the ablest and most widely beloved preachers who ever lived in Georgia. He tells of pastorates at Jacksonville, Waresboro, Hamilton, Buena Vista, Albany, Waynesboro, Valdosta, Macon, Columbus, Savannah and Americus. He has served these 50 years pretty much in the wiregrass section of Georgia and for those of us who were reared in that part of the state, the book is particularly fascinating. Just follow him for a chapter or two and he will take you across all the creeks and call the names of all the crossroads stores and schoolhouses.

Born at Plainville, near Rome, July 14, 1859, Dr. Anthony has lived his long and useful life in Georgia and is now spending his sunset days in Macon. I quote two or three sentences from his book: "Age is quality of mind; if you have left your dreams behind, if age is cold, if you no longer look ahead, if your ambitions' fires are

Thief Robbed of Loot, Sent to Prison Anyway

Turn about might be fair play but is not sufficient punishment for a thief, Judge T. O. Hathcock, presiding in second division of Fulton criminal court, decided yesterday.

James White, 19-year-old negro, stole 50 pounds of lard from a meat truck and hid his loot until he could take it home without being seen. This he admitted to the court.

Came darkness and James returned from his loot. It had been stolen. In view of this, James asked the court to let him off without punishment for his crime.

Judge Hathcock declined, held James must serve six months for his crime.

"It's a tough loss," the negro mused.

COMMITTEE TO PONDER CITY FINANCE PLIGHT

Finance committeemen today will be faced with two problems—numerous requests for additional appropriations, and a lack of funds.

Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, chairman, said the committee will consider the petitions of many city employees to be restored to their original basic pay, but that there was no money in the city coffers at present. Some city workers had their basic pay reduced in 1932 before the general pay reductions were made. Thus when basic pay was ordered restored as of July 1, they were restored to the schedule on which they were paid when the pay cut went into effect.

Requests for money with which to repair the Auburn avenue branch of the Carnegie library, and for widening Twelfth street between Juniper and Peachtree streets will also be considered. The committee meets at 3 o'clock.

BRITAIN, U. S. RENEW MONETARY ACCORD; NEW FRANC SLUMPS

France Is Highly Gratified by Anglo-American Support in Crisis.

PARIS, July 1.—(AP)—Notes from the United States and British governments agreeing to continue the three-power monetary agreement of last October were handed today to Finance Minister Georges Bonnet.

Officials declared this renewal of the pact was "highly gratifying" to France, faced with a financial crisis which compelled her to abandon temporarily the gold basis for the franc.

Gives France a Chance.

They said the accord would give France a chance to work out her economic difficulties with assurance her currency would be safeguarded internationally. The news was particularly pleasing to French leaders in view of the European muddle over Spain.

Meanwhile, the new "floating franc" freed from restrictions on its gold content and permitted to find its own level, worked down to the lowest point in more than 10 years. At the close of open market trading it was quoted at 26.06 to the dollar and 128.93 to the English pound.

Notes Identical.

The American and British notes were identical, signed by Henry Morgenthau Jr., secretary of the treasury, and Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer.

Tonight the United States dollar bought more francs than at any time in the last 10 years. At the closing rate buyers paid 3.377 cents per franc, whereas Monday, the last trading day, they paid 4.46 cents.

Today's trading brought French currency approximately back to where it started 11 years ago in relation to United States and British money.

DeKalb Fire Lines Take in Druid Hills

Operation of the Druid Hills fire department by DeKalb county was inaugurated yesterday.

Under the setup homes located in the Druid Hills fire district, which embraces territory between the city limits of Avondale and Decatur, and south of an east-west line to the north of Emory University, will be served.

Residents will be assessed an additional five-mill tax for the fire protection, C. A. Matthews, DeKalb county commissioner of roads and revenues, announced. The Druid Hills fire department was privately-owned formerly and homeowners were able to receive protection only by paying a yearly sum to the fire company.

PERKINS SUPPORTS CIO IN STEEL STRIKE

"Unwisely" in the strike situation. "F. D. R. Prolonged Strike."

He voiced the opinion that by "intimating that the steel owners should have signed" the President had "held out hope" to the strikers and caused them to prolong the strike.

Ellender accused both sides in the steel dispute of being "stubborn" and said Secretary of Labor Perkins "in her zeal to settle the strike, has sided with strikers and not within the letter of the law."

While East Chicago workers poured back into Inland's reopened plant, a second break in strike lines occurred in south Chicago, Ill., ten miles distant, when the Youngstown Sheet & Tube mill secretly resumed partial operations.

210 Slip Into Plant.

Police Sergeant Cannon estimated 210 workers had slipped into the plant by boat and in Pullman cars in a surprise move, after Youngstown officials cancelled a previous 8 a. m. "zero hour" for reopening when Governor Townsend refused to send Indiana national guardsmen to protect workers.

Thousands of men staged a midnight-to-dawn celebration of the east Chicago "strike armistice," and tonight Inland's paymaster said a full force had been assigned to jobs.

Picket lines were withdrawn, and plumes of smoke billowed from the towering stacks.

Other Firms Silent.

The other three members of the "little steel" group—Republic, Bethlehem and Youngstown Sheet & Tube—either remained silent or the Inland settlement or indicated their policy was unswerving.

Officials of all three companies said tonight that despite the continued siege of John L. Lewis' CIO picket forces, few of their mills were now idle.

The most outspoken comment on the Inland pact came from Frank Purnell, president of Youngstown Sheet & Tube, whose East Chicago plant, normally employing 6,500 men, had planned to reopen at 8 a. m. today if guaranteed troop protection.

"My company will not make any agreement with the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee or the CIO either directly or indirectly, and will not make any such agreement through the Governor's office," Purnell said.

Republic adamant.

"Our position remains unchanged," said a spokesman for Tom Girdler's Republic Steel Corporation.

"No comment," said Bethlehem.

Bethlehem's Cambria works at Johnstown, Pa., with a normal employment of 15,000 men, speeded up operations today after Tuesday's paralyzing dynamite blasts cut two main water feed lines.

Sidney Evans, company official, said one of the explosion-shattered lines had been repaired and that conditions in the mills were "virtually normal, with the working force practically complete."

True Provisions.

The Townsend pact, reached at the eleventh hour after the Governor had called out 2,000 Indiana National Guardsmen, provides principally:

1. Return to work without discrimination.

2. Recognition of the SWOC as the collective bargaining agency for its members only. Nonmembers of the SWOC not to be "intimidated" by either side.

3. If grievances cannot be resolved in conferences with Inland officials, they will be carried to the Indiana labor commissioner for adjudication. Inland agrees to accept the commissioner's decision as final.

Other Developments.

Elsewhere on the strike front, these developments took place today:

1. At Massillon, Ohio, nearly 2,000 non-striking Republic Steel employees signed a petition stating their desire to return to work under pre-strike conditions, the company said.

2. At Canton, Ohio, both CIO

From 1911 to 1937, What Hath Style Wrought?

When George V Was Crowned, There Was No Drape Style, Collars Were High and Uncomfortable, and Trousers Sloped Sharply.

By ROBERT FAIRCHILD
Editor Men's Fashions.

The occasion of the coronation of a new King of England naturally sent the editors of many a magazine to the files to see just what was going at the time when George V was crowned. The editors of MEN'S WEAR had a lot of fun leafing back 25 years or so, and we were amazed to note the changes that have come about in the dress of the average man since those days.

After you've finished chuckling over the ensemble of the 1911 laddie buck illustrated herewith (evoked from a fashion sketch in MEN'S WEAR of that time), compare it carefully with the lower figure, whose apparel is typical of the well-dressed man today. See if you can pick out the essential differences in line, both in the clothing and the accessories.

Of course, that collar will occasion a chuckle, and the commentary that here is a primary evidence of the progress that has been wrought in the way of comfortable apparel. Even sports dress in those days, if one wanted to be in fashion, for active tennis or golf, included one of these high stiff collars. And the tie was a small knot affair, narrow, and tucked like a comma at the bottom of a tall, impenetrable slit. The most important single difference, however, is in the chest, next that they have no cuff, coming far down on the narrow, cloth shoe, almost touching the ground at the heel. Compare this with the modern trouser, high-waisted and full-cut with a cuff cut too break just slightly over the instep.

There is a wide difference, too, between the vest openings. The 1911 figure reveals considerably less of the shirt front and tie, while the 1937 figure shows a generous expanse of both. Incidentally, the patterned shirt is much more popular nowadays than it was then, when the separate white stiff collar was universal. Today the white starched collar has returned to style, but for more formal wear, and in comfortable, wide-spread styles. It is frequently worn, too, with a shirt that is of a different color or carries a pattern.

Some other differences one might note: The hats, of course; the breast-pocket handkerchief, much more common today than it was then; the slanting breast-pocket of the 1911 jacket. Those hats are particularly important. The modern snap-brim is only a few years old, comparatively; in 1911 such sloppy brims as that seen in the picture were worn turned up in front, rather than down. Note, too, that the band was much wider in those days.

silhouette of the ensemble. In the 1937 figure there is that modern style known as lrape—a full chest, comfortable and natural, hanging gracefully from the shoulders, with a definite waistline, and a close-fitting jacket skirt. The lapels are broad. Our 1911 figure happens to be wearing a single-breasted jacket, but the double-breasted of those days had the buttons close together and hung straight down without any waisting whatsoever. Note the length of the jacket of a quarter century ago, and the flare to the skirt. It was three-button, and all the buttons were supposed to button. Nowadays the three-button jacket buttons only the center button, and the more usual two-button model needs to have only the upper one fastened.

Note the extreme taper to the trousers of the 1911 suit. Note

Even Statues Bathe Despite Cool Weather

Summertime is bath time for statues on the state capitol grounds. Workmen are shown above giving the statue of General John B. Gordon its annual cooling bath. It's kind of a preparation for hot weather yet to come.

2 U. S. JUDGES CALLED ON TROOP INJUNCTION

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 1.—(AP) Federal Judge Mell G. Underwood said late today he would call in two other federal judges to decide whether a one or three-judge court should hear the Committee of Industrial Organization's suit to enjoin the use of state troops in the steel strike zone.

Judge Underwood set for hearing on Tuesday the CIO's appeal for a temporary order to restrain the troops from protecting strike-bound steel plants pending hearing of the injunction suit on its merits.

FARLEY ACCUSES REPUBLIC OF FOSTERING STRIFE

WASHINGTON, July 1.—(AP)—Postmaster General Farley charged the Republic Steel Corporation today with seeking to provoke "civil disorder and strife" and with attempting to necessitate use of armed government forces at strike-picketed plants in Warren and Niles, Ohio.

In a brief filed on his behalf in federal district court by H. L. Underwood, assistant United States attorney, Farley asked the court not to issue a writ of mandamus sought by the company which would require the Post-office Department to deliver food to the picketed plants.

dead, according to autopsy reports, were shot in the back.

Just before Beck testified, William V. Daly, assistant corporation counsel, of Chicago, defended the police action.

"We maintain," Daly said, "the acts of the police were sanctioned by the law of Illinois and the action of the mob was illegal."

La Follette said that suppressed news reels of the riot would be shown tomorrow.

Earlier Chicago Patrolman Higgins testified he saw a brother officer, Walter Oakes, shoot a picket in the stomach.

Says Picket Armed.

Higgins testified he saw a nickel-plated revolver in the picket's hand, and said the man had just been attempting to put his knee on Oakes' throat as the latter lay on the ground.

La Follette excused Higgins long enough to introduce the Chicago coroner's report on the dead picket, whom Higgins said was Joe Rothmund, and to reveal through the questioning of Dr. Lawrence Jacques, Chicago surgeon, that Rothmund was shot in the back. Then he called Higgins back to the stand.

"Can you help the committee reconcile your statement that Oakes shot the man in the stomach with the coroner's report that he was shot in the back?" La Follette asked quietly.

"Senator," said Higgins, "that was my statement to my superiors and that is my statement now. I have nothing to add."

COMPLETE REPORTS BY COUNTY POLICE PROMISED JURORS

General Revision of Crime Investigating Methods To Be Made at Once.

A general revision of crime investigating methods of Fulton county police was promised a grand jury committee yesterday by county commissioners.

Grand jury members expressed dissatisfaction with the method employed by county officers in investigating the traffic death of E. E. Mitchell, a pedestrian, who was struck and killed by a car driven by McCoy Harrison on Chattahoochee avenue, near the Seaboard shops, May 23.

No report of the accident had been made to the solicitor's office until several weeks after the fatality, the grand jury was told. The conference yesterday was called at the request of C. C. Chamberlain, jury foreman, in an effort to determine if the county officers had been lax in investigating the accident, which involved the nephew of E. G. Fitzgerald, county officer.

Harrison was indicted last Friday on an involuntary manslaughter charge after the victim's father had complained to the solicitor's office. Police said an oral report had been made.

Results of the investigation yesterday proved the grand jurors and the county officers had received entirely different reports of the accident and under the evidence uncovered by the police, there had been no violation of the law, the accident being held unavoidable. Grand jury witnesses had testified the Harrison car was traveling at an excessive rate of speed.

Commissioner Edwin F. Johnson, chairman of the police committee, assured the grand jurors that complete investigations of fatalities, robberies and burglaries would be made in the future and that a copy of written reports would be turned over to the solicitor's office immediately after they were made by the officers.

A meeting of the county police force will be called and officers will be instructed in investigating crimes, Johnson said.

The commissioners exonerated Officers Fitzgerald, Lieutenant W. A. Wells and all others who investigated the accident of any "suspicion that they covered up to protect a fellow officer."

Sound-proofing of the grand jury room will begin immediately, the commissioners promised the jurors.

ROOSEVELT'S SON

Four Aides Made Full-Fledged Secretaries.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., July 1.—(P)—Marvin H. McIntyre today officially became a full-fledged "secretary" to President Roosevelt.

Under the independent offices appropriation act, McIntyre and Stephen T. Early, formerly assistant secretaries at $9,500 a year, and James Roosevelt, administrative assistant at around $6,000, became "secretaries" at $10,000.

CAR LEAPS OVER CURB,
TWO MEN ARE INJURED

A fast-moving car jumped the curb and crashed into a tree on the lawn of a residence at 720 Central avenue, injuring the driver and a passenger, shortly after 10 o'clock last night.

The driver, listed as Ephraim Ingram, 17, of Scottsdale, Ga., was admitted to Grady hospital. He suffered internal injuries. The passenger, who identified himself as Lloyd Anderson, 19, of Quitman, Ga., suffered cuts and bruises. He was treated at the hospital.

Commission Begins Truck Inspections

The Georgia Public Service Commission yesterday got down to business in the matter of motor common carrier inspections by establishing its first of an ultimate 15 stations for the purpose.

The station was set up on the Dixie highway at Emerson and the first day's operations were under direct supervision of Perry T. Knight, member of the commission. Ten inspectors were used yesterday.

Knight said results showed up as perfectly satisfactory by 8 o'clock in the morning. All trucks and buses operating for hire passing the station were required to stop and submit to thorough inspection as to safety equipment, condition of tires, appearance of drivers, physical condition and on other points.

CULT AIDE IS HAPPY AS HE AWAITS TERM

'You Can't Jail the Spirit,' Says Hunt—In Cell; Faces Five Years.

LOS ANGELES, July 1.—(P)—John Wuest Hunt seemed happy though jailed tonight as he awaited sentencing tomorrow for a Mann act violation.

"You can't jail the spirit," said Father Divine's disciple, who faces a maximum of five years in McNeil Island penitentiary and a $5,000 fine. He was convicted of transporting Delight Jewett from Denver to Beverly Hills for immoral purposes.

Hunt's cellmate is Robert S. James, convicted snake-murderer of his wife. James said he is accepting Father Divine's cult teaching as relayed by Hunt.

Hunt said he feels no animosity toward Delight, the girl he named the Virgin Mary.

"She just climbed aboard the Hunt bandwagon, that's all," he said.

BUS IN DOUBLE CRASH; TWO HURT, DRIVER HELD

A bicyclist was slightly injured early last night when a bus side-swiped a parked automobile and then struck the wheel on the Dixie highway, at Mountain View, according to Sheriff E. L. Adamson, of Clayton county.

The bicyclist, Howard Hood, 18, of Mountain View, was admitted to Lakewood clinic.

Kenneth Brown, 35, of Thomaston, driver of the bus, was arrested on charges of assault and resisting arrest. He was held under $1,000 bond. Sheriff Adamson said Brown drew a hammer when he questioned him about the accident.

Shortly after the accident, Maggie Weems, 51, of Hampton, Ga., was taken to Grady hospital, suffering probable internal injuries. She said she was a passenger on the bus.

The other friends are Elmer Oliver, vice president of the Southern railroad; Russell Leonard, of Boston, president of the Pepperell Manufacturing Company; Ben Grossett, of South Carolina; and former Governor Max Gardner, of North Carolina.

The party left Washington by train for Providence, R. I., from which port they will board a steamer for Nantucket. They expect to be gone until early Tuesday of next week.

Veteran Educator Ends Service As Head of School for the Deaf

James C. Harris Retires After 21 Years' Service at Cave Spring; Clayton H. Hollingsworth Becomes Institution's Superintendent.

CAVE SPRING, Ga., July 1.—James Coffee Harris, for the past 21 years superintendent of the Georgia School for the Deaf here, today relinquished his post to Clayton H. Hollingsworth, a former teacher here, who recently was graduated from the Gallaudet School for the Deaf in Washington.

The retiring superintendent is a brother of the late United States Senator William J. Harris, of Georgia. He now becomes superintendent emeritus, by direction of the board of control.

Mr. Harris, now approaching his 80th birthday, thus brought to a close a total of six decades of service to educational institutions in the state—a service which recently brought warm commendation from the board of control upon acceptance of his resignation.

"The board members believe that probably no other teacher or school executive in our state has had a longer record of service," said Mrs. Albert M. Hill, secretary, at that time, "nor more assurances of the love and admiration of pupils and the respect and commendation of parents than has come to you."

Mr. Hollingsworth, who assumed office as superintendent today, is a native of Graymont, Ga. Before attending Gallaudet, he was graduated from Statesboro Teachers' College. He has had 22 years' teaching experience in Georgia, having held posts at Cave Spring, Coopersville, Rocky Ford, South Georgia Teachers' College and Emanuel County Institute.

Offer of Market Assures Profit To Grower of Long Staple Cotton

Long-staple variety of cotton can be grown profitably once more in Georgia, Manning S. Yeomans, state entomologist, is convinced, following receipt yesterday of a cotton factor's report which confirmed an "outlet for any sea island cotton that might be offered."

Sea Island cotton faded from the state's agricultural set-up with the advent of the boll weevil and "40-cent" prices for short-staple varieties. It was being grown in a number of south Georgia and north Florida counties, Yeomans said.

Experiments are being conducted by state and federal agencies to improve the variety, he said. The principal problem is not one of finding a market for the cotton but of finding proper methods of combating weevil damage, he added.

MRS. ANNIE HAGERTY PASSES IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Annie Hagerty, long-time resident of Atlanta and prominent member of the Immaculate Conception church, died at a private hospital last night.

She was 68 years old and resided at 302 Woodson street, S. E. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. M. E. Phillips; three sons, Thomas H. Hagerty, of Atlanta; Charles H. Hagerty, of Philadelphia, Pa.; and Michael Hagerty, of Ireland.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Sam R. Greenberg.

MOTORCYCLISTS HURT AS AUTO MAKES TURN

Two men on a motorcycle suffered cuts and bruises when an automobile making a "U" turn on Washington street, at Richardson street, crashed head-on into the wheel, at about 10:30 o'clock last night, according to police.

The injured cyclists, Daniel Ratley, 23, of 195 Forrest avenue, driver, and William M. Ward, 21, of 332 Courtland street, were treated at Grady hospital. Police reported the driver of the car was Sol Loberfeld, 23, of 545 Washington street.

Only a dollar was stolen but Owen McGlynn was incensed. The dollar came out of his antique shop in Newburyport, Mass., and bore the date 1799.

SWEEPING CHANGES VOTED ON BY IRISH

New Name, Constitution, Parliament May Come Out of Balloting.

DUBLIN, July 1.—(P)—Ireland voted today for a new name, a new parliament and a new constitution—and did it quietly.

First results were not expected until late tomorrow and the final result until Saturday.

The new name was "Eire" (pronounced airy); the new parliament was redistributed to have 138 members instead of 159, and the new constitution was designed to wipe out the last ties with Great Britain.

Supporters of fiery President Eamon de Valera, seeking re-election, predicted they would "hold their own."

Backers of William T. Cosgrave, presidential aspirant fighting for his political life, said the de Valera party would not increase its parliamentary majority and might even receive a severe setback.

Both groups contended the new constitution would be indorsed. The President stood upon his record and asked to be returned for another five years "to carry out the work that remains to be done."

Cosgrave said Ireland's economic ills stemmed from the Govk's efforts to leave Britain and said "we must put English money into the pockets of Irish farmers."

Polling was light until a few hours before closing when a rush began. Reports from most parts of the country indicated tempers remained as placid as the weather.

MISSING MAN'S AUTO FOUND IN TENNESSEE

COVINGTON, Ga., July 1.—The mystery surrounding the disappearance of Ragan Mathis, 20, who left his home here more than two weeks ago in his father's car to visit a friend, was partly unraveled today when the car was found in Chattanooga, Tenn., by police.

The car was reported found in a garage awaiting repairs. Further investigation is under way, but details have not been announced.

HIGHER TEMPERATURES PREDICTED FOR TODAY

After July had been ushered in yesterday with near-record low temperatures for the month, indications for today were for slightly warmer weather with partly cloudy skies, according to the local United States Weather Bureau.

Temperatures today probably will range from a low of 62 to a high of 85, compared to yesterday's low of 59 and high of 77.

3 DIE IN SING SING FOR TAVERN SLAYING

Fourth Member of Gang Saved Few Hours Before Execution.

OSSINING, N. Y., July 1.—(P)—Three men were executed in the Sing Sing electric chair tonight for the tavern holdup murder of Isaac Shain in Brooklyn last November 8.

The three were Anthony Garlausa, Harry Eisenberg and Watson Edwards.

Eisenberg, 43-year-old reputed graduate of Heidelberg University and master of 11 languages, went to the chair first.

He entered the death chamber at 10:02 p. m. Atlanta time and was pronounced dead at 10:05.

"Gentlemen," he said, "one man is absolutely innocent. I ask you, men of the press, to implore the people to vote for abolition of capital punishment so innocent men don't go to the chair."

A fourth member of the group which participated in the holdup killing, 23-year-old Raymond Norton, was saved from the chair by a commutation of his sentence to life imprisonment a few hours before.

Edwards, 25, was the second to die. He entered the death chamber at 10:06 and was pronounced dead at 10:09.

Garlausa, 34-year-old dapper, pock-marked leader of the group, died five minutes later.

Edwards, accompanied by the Protestant prison chaplain, Dr. Anthony Petersen, smiled.

Garlausa, who walked in with the Catholic chaplain, Rev. John J. McCaffrey, looked straight ahead and kissed the crucifix as he was strapped in the chair.

They were convicted of the gun slaying of Shain as he stepped into a bar and grill at 195 Sutter avenue, Brooklyn, during a holdup on November 8, 1935.

DUNN, N. C., July 1.—(P)—Sheriff W. E. Salmon announced today that he was investigating a note dropped from a speeding automobile and apparently purporting to be a message from Mrs. Alice McDowell Parsons, of Long Island, who disappeared May 8.

Salmon said the note, obviously hastily scrawled, read: "I'm being held near Raleigh." It was signed "Mrs. Parsons," he said.

A. H. Phelps, filling station operator near Lillington, told Salmon the note was dropped from an automobile as it dashed swiftly by his place.

The missive closed with the words: "Good look to you."

Game Protectors Told to Urge Vacations Within Georgia Upon Friends.

Seeking to interest Georgians in the vacation spots of their own state, J. D. Mitchell, wild life director, has instructed state game protectors to become boosters of Georgia's vacation and resort facilities.

In letters of instructions issued to game protectors throughout the state, Mitchell requested them to "talk to your friends about their vacations."

"Suggest to them," he said, "that they acquaint themselves with their own state. Many scenic and historical places, state parks, mountains, seashores, fishing lakes and streams will prove one of the most enjoyable summer vacations they have ever spent in Georgia."

The wild life department is a part of the state natural resources agency, which has as part of its duty the development of vacation spots in the state.

Mitchell believes that the variety of sports and vacation endeavors furnished by Georgia should prove satisfactory to any citizens of the state—provided they will stay in the state for their vacations.

New Novel of Georgia Written by Teacher

STATESBORO, Ga., July 1.—(P)—Miss Ruth Skipper, Georgia school teacher, announced she had completed a 57,000-word novel of the south which would be published this fall.

Her book, "Justice to All," deals with the life of the southern negro in the turpentine industry, and was three years in preparation.

Miss Skipper is a native of Loris, S. C., and came to Georgia in 1921. She had been teaching school for 11 years and is known for her success as a coach, particularly in basketball.

Her novel, she said, was inspired by her close contact with rural life and the work of the negro in the turpentine camps.

The decision followed by a few days a request from the Committee for the Defense of Civil Liberties in Tampa for Governor Cone to investigate the case "to see if justice has been willfully obstructed." The case was heard by the supreme court on appeal last December.

The defendants are C. A. Brown Jr., Sam E. Crosby, John P. Bridges, F. W. Switzer and C. W. Carlisle.

Poulnot was kidnapped from the street in front of Tampa police headquarters on November 30, 1935, along with Joseph Shoemaker and Sam Rogers, unemployed workers' organizers, when they were released after police arrested them and brought them in for questioning about alleged Communist activities.

The three men were taken to a wooded section outside the city and flogged; Shoemaker died from his injuries December 9, but Poulnot and Rogers recovered.

RECORDING OF VOICE OF DEAD IS CLAIMED

First Phonograph Disk of 'Spirit's' Advice Made in New York.

LILY DALE, N. Y., July 1.—(P)—Spiritualist leaders claimed tonight to have completed the first successful mechanical recording of a "voice from the dead."

While a railroad train whistled drearily through near-by hills last night, 25 spiritualists sitting in a hotel room said they heard the "voice of a dead Indian addressing a microphone."

Today they listened in silence to the wax record of the seance. A voice intoned:

"There is no greater manifestation of God than in the beauty of a human hand clasped to help a human hand."

R. G. Pressing, editor of the Dale News, publication of this spiritualist summer encampment, explained the procedure and said it was the first spirit "recording."

"The spirit was that of an Indian who died 300 years ago," he said. "His name was Moon Trail."

"The seance took place in the brightly lighted lounge of the Maplewood hotel. In one corner was the recording machine, brought here from New York by a representative of the manufacturer."

"Moon Trail's intermediary, Mr. Horace S. Hambling, of London, England, stood before a microphone 30 feet from the machine. When the people seated around him were quiet, he went into a trance."

"Moon Trail's spirit," Pressing said, "then took control of Mr."

NORTON, Va., July 1.—(P)—Dedication of the Jefferson National forest to the use and enjoyment of an "ever-living nation" and the welcoming of Miss Nancy Letitia Peery, daughter of Governor and Mrs. Peery, of Virginia, marked the opening today of the third annual rhododendron festival, colorful southwest celebration of the blossoming mountain flower.

Milburn L. Wilson, undersecretary of the United States Department of Agriculture, declared the forest area, which ultimately may exceed 2,000,000 acres, would serve as a living monument to Thomas Jefferson and that such national forests would "add continuously to the security and permanent welfare of human beings."

Miss Peery, beginning a three-day reign as queen of the rhododendron festival, will be joined by her father, Governor George C. Peery, tomorrow for the coronation, parade and Governor's ball.

Governor A. B. Chandler, of Kentucky, and Governor Homer A. Holt, of West Virginia, also are expected to attend.

PROBE OF HOSPITAL WILL END IN COURT

Dishonesty, Corruption Are Charged to Tennessee Employees.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 1.—(P)—Lewis S. Pope, special state investigator, said at the conclusion of a two-day hearing at Eastern State hospital today that criminal and civil action will result from the investigation.

"The developments thus far at the hospital," Pope said, "afford just another example of dishonesty and corruption that has been prevalent in many state departments during periods in the past."

He declined to say who would be involved in the civil or criminal action or to say when the action would be instituted.

Hints "Influence of Superiors." Pope asserted that some state employees had been influenced to "convert state property to themselves," by "actions of some of their superiors."

"The extent, of course, to which this practice has been carried out," he said, "has not thus far been demonstrated, but it has developed sufficiently to warrant the statement that many thousands of dollars in property and the service of state employees have been received by heads of institutions and other departments of the state."

"It is my intention to carry this to a conclusion and if possible develop it all. Each and every person guilty of it, and I have proof to sustain the charges, will be prosecuted criminally. Civil suits will be brought to recover money where it is believed there is a chance to collect it."

Corroborate Testimony. Three hospital employees corroborated testimony given by other employees yesterday that state materials had been trucked to the two farms of Dr. Howard M. Francisco, resigned hospital superintendent.

They also testified that they had been required to contribute to the Burghin Dosssett campaign fund last year. At that time Dosssett, supported by the past administration, opposed Governor Gordon Browning for the Democratic gubernatorial candidacy.

Pope returned to Nashville today. He said he would open an investigation at the Western State hospital at Bolivar, some time next week. Previous he had said it would be Monday, but explained today he might be delayed.

THE LAUGHS START EARLY AND STAY LATE
An Early Morning Menu of Romance, Adventure and Hilarious Laughter!

ROBERT YOUNG FLORENCE RICE

"MARRIED BEFORE BREAKFAST"

ATLANTA THEATER NEWS

Gay Comedy of Love On Screen at Rialto

"Married Before Breakfast," a romance which moves with breakneck speed and hilarious comedy, opens at the Rialto theater today for a week's run. Its two principal roles are played by Robert Young and Florence Rice, while the supporting cast contains such strong box office names as June Clayworth, Warren Humer, Irene Franklin, Tom Kennedy and Edgar Dearing. It was directed by Edwin L. Marin from a story by Harry Ruskin. It is an M-G-M production.

Imagine a youth, engaged to a wealthy girl, but who refuses to settle down to work to make himself rich. Instead he wants to get rich at once or else enjoy a good life period before settling down.

He is led to invent something that will bring the money he needs, but the girl breaks the engagement.

Then he strikes the luck he has sought. He gets a quarter of a million dollars for an invention. And meets another girl. And circumstances involve them with a gang of thieves and a stolen taxi-cab and the police and a famous diamond and a broadcasting station—and a myriad other factors that keep every audience in so much laughter their eyes are wet with laugh-induced tears.

Of the sort subjects complete a program devised for laughter and gay romance, exclusively.

"Captains Courageous" Held for Second Week

Not since "David Copperfield" has Freddie Bartholomew found a role so winning, so ample in scope, as that he plays in "Captains Courageous." And not since "Treasure Island" has the screen provided so colorful a tale of youthful adventure at sea as this film version to Rudyard Kipling's great novel.

Cordial support during the past week has encouraged Manager Edwin Pentecost to retain the film for a second week's presentation at Loew's Grand. It will continue, along with an unusually popular Our Gang Comedy, "Hearts Are Trumps," and Metro's expertly presented News of the Day, until next Friday, when Loew's Grand will present the long-awaited Marx Brothers film, "A Day at the Races."

"Captains Courageous" presents Freddie Bartholomew as young Harvey Cheyne, spoiled schoolboy of a wealthy manufacturer. His selfishness and arrogance make him unpopular at the smart boys' school he is attending, and the boy's father, hoping to get closer to his son, plans a European trip for them. A few hours out of New York, Harvey topples overboard.

A Portuguese fisherman, Manuel (played by Spencer Tracy) rescues him and takes him aboard the fishing boat "We're Here," captained by Lionel Barrymore, and manned by a crew of sturdy, simple, honest New England fishermen.

Harvey perforce remains on the "We're Here" for six months. It is a period during which association with the seamen provides the youngster with a real contact with life, and with an understanding of sportsmanship and heroism.

War in Spain Locale Of Film at Paramount

The drama of war-torn Spain has been made the background for a powerful motion picture plot by Paramount Pictures in "The Last Train From Madrid," the star-studded drama which opens today at the Paramount theater.

With a capable cast of players headed by Dorothy Lamour, Lew Ayres, Gilbert Roland, Karen Morley, Lionel Atwill and many other skilled players, "The Last Train From Madrid" is the story of 10 persons, most of them unknown to each other, whose lives are suddenly thrown together and their destinies worked out during 12 feverish hours in Madrid while the city is under heavy bombardment.

The story centers upon an incident in the Spanish war which took place last winter. During one of the battles the railroad connecting Madrid to Valencia, referred to as "Madrid's Life Line," had been cut, isolating Madrid from the outside world. A few days later the line had been repaired and the government announced that certain persons would be permitted to leave the city on the first train out which was also to be the last train from the stricken city.

"The Last Train From Madrid" is "strictly neutral" in the issues involved in the present Spanish conflict. It simply deals with the 10 lives caught in the maelstrom, and follows them during the 12 hours in which the story takes place. It was directed by James Hogan.

Three Famous Stars In "Kid Galahad" at Fox

Bette Davis was winner of the 1935 Academy gold statue for the best film performance of the year. Edward G. Robinson's every picture has been great since "Little Caesar," back in 1930. Humphrey Bogart was the main figure in the recent "Black Legion" thriller, and the menacing bandit in "Petrified Forest."

Each an individual Warner Brothers star, but none all working together in "Kid Galahad," an exciting story of the prize ring and those who surround it. The picture begins at the Fox theater today.

"Kid Galahad," written by Francis Wallace, was a great literary success when it first appeared in a serial in a national weekly magazine. Then it became a best seller as a novel.

The story deals with two underworld fight managers, Robinson and Bogart, and their attempts to double-cross each other. Eddie's fighter is "Kid Galahad" (called that because of his idealistic attitude toward women), played by a 23-year-old newcomer to the screen named Wayne Morris. It is predicted by those who saw the picture in preview that this movie will shoot him right into stardom.

Bogart's "boy" is another very unusual character, William Hackett, who was taken right off the sketchnote of a steel office building to play the lead in the stage production, "Iron Men." He's a genuine steel worker. Directly from the Broadway play he was brought to Hollywood to do "Chuck McGraw," the heavyweight champion in "Kid Galahad."

Special Holiday Bill Announced by Capitol

A Fourth of July celebration that will last for one week is planned by the Capitol theater in the new program which will open Sunday.

The special feature is "The Great O'Malley" which will star Pat O'Brien, Humphrey Bogart and Sybil Jason. It is a story of conflict between O'Brien, a tough cop, and Bogart, the bad man of the screen.

Stage show selected for this occasion is "Krazy Kapers Revue," with a cast of 25 stage and radio stars offering eight acts of vaudeville.

A special added attraction for the entire week is "Yankee Doodle Frolics," a special fourth of July prologue featuring 35 young dance students. Enrico Leide will conduct the 15-piece stage band during this offering.

Current screen offering to be presented through Saturday is "Oh, Doctor," starring Edward Everett Horton and Eve Arden with "Hello America" on the stage.

The railroad retirement board said it had certified 46,000 pensioners to the treasury for payment. About 4,000 more will be certified later.

SUBSTITUTE GIVEN ON WAGE-HOUR BILL

Wool Manufacturers Object To Pay Minimum Section.

NEW YORK, July 1.—(P)—Describing the Black-Conerly wage and hour bills pending in congress as a "dangerous threat to industry," Arthur Besse, president of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers, today sent Senator Hugo Black in Washington a revised draft of the bills which he said would end this objection.

Besse opposed in particular the provision in the Black-Conerly bills for a labor standards board empowered to raise or lower for any particular industry the wage and hour minimums established by congress.

He proposed instead congress establish a general wage and hour minimum for all industry which the board could revise downward—but not upward—for industries unable to meet that minimum.

The revised draft, prepared by Besse at Black's invitation, suggested the general wage minimum be set "on the ability of the most backward industry to pay."

COURT TO RULE TODAY ON CHILD BRIDE'S PLEA

BRADENTON, Fla., July 1.—(P)—Martha Nell Revel, 13-year-old bride of Chandler Revel, 57-year-old grandfather, looked today for a ruling on the annulment of her marriage last March.

Circuit Judge Harrison said he would rule tomorrow.

Martha told the court she married Revel because he promised her parents a comfortable home, promised to buy her pretty clothes and a bicycle, and threatened to discharge her father at a rate mill if she refused the proposal.

'Storekeeper,' 11, Bitten by Dogs, Sues for $5,000

Business of a childhood store at Center Hill was disrupted last Friday when an 11-year-old delivery girl was knocked down and allegedly bitten by two German police dogs.

And to keep the whole transaction strictly businesslike, the delivery girl and storekeeper filed suit in Fulton superior court yesterday against the owners of the dogs in an effort to collect $5,000 damages.

The "store" was a booth on the sidewalk at which neighborhood children sought to make spending money by selling candy and other little pieces of merchandise. The victim was Mary Christine Throver, of Tennessee, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. C. L. Gatzaway, in Center Hill. The suit was filed through the sister as Mary Christine is a minor.

Defendants are A. T. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Wallace, also of Center Hill, owners of the dogs.

Mrs. Wallace said the girl was playing with the dog when she was knocked down by one of them and scratched. The petition alleges she was bitten, knocked down and her clothing torn. So bad were the bites, the petition says, that a doctor's services were required.

Callaway said that examinations will be given all servants free at the Atlanta state disease hospital, since the United States Public Health Service has granted an additional $7,500 to the hospital for extension service.

Redoubtable Mac and Brothers Arrive to Fight Peach Moth Bane

Tough Little Insects With Great Big Name and Poison to Fruit Tree Pest Reach Georgia By Airplane for Duty.

Macrocentrus Ancylovorus—identified by Mr. Webster as the chalcid fly, and an old friend of State Entomologist Manning Yeomans—arrived by plane at Candler field last night along with several thousand of his relatives. Mac and his brethren came down, Yeomans said, to help him in his fight on the oriental peach moth, an insect which damages peaches, particularly in north Georgia.

Mac is a parasite, but comes from a good family. The hymenopterous class, of which he is a member, is a superfamily classed by Mr. Webster as the "highest group not only of insects but of invertebrates."

He has a habit of inhabiting the bodies of his hosts eventually causing their death and in this way is of the greatest benefit to man. Yeomans said some 23,000,000 of the latter have been distributed.

Mac is small in size but carries his clan's characteristics—a long, sawlike stinger and a set of four membranous wings. He came to Georgia in a shipment from the United States Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine at Moorestown, N. J.

FARMER IS FOUND DEAD OF GUN SHOT

Dairymen's Body Discovered in Home by Sop.

John A. Parker, 61-year-old dairy farmer, was found dead yesterday in his home on Forrest road with a shotgun wound in his chest, Fulton county police reported.

The victim's son, H. P. Parker, told police he heard a muffled shot at 6 a. m. but thought it was the backfire of a car. When he got up a few minutes later he said he found his father slumped over a chair near a window with a single-barreled gun beside him.

Mr. Parker had been in failing health, relatives and friends said. He is survived by three other sons, W. J., Harry and Bruce Parker; a brother, W. O. Parker, and five sisters, Mrs. W. B. Lawson, Mrs. L. F. Koster, Mrs. John Williams, Mrs. James Chiklaks and Mrs. C. E. Payne.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of Howard L. Carmichael, with the Rev. E. A. Miller officiating. Burial will be in the College Park cemetery.

BRITISH MAY CUT U. S. STEEL DUTY

Metal Needed Urgently for Rearmament.

LONDON, July 1.—(AP)—Government officials indicated today the house of commons today they were considering reduction of the duty on steel imported from the United States because the metal was needed so urgently for rearmament.

When John A. C. Wright, Conservative member, asked if the government considered reducing the duty to 12 1/2 per cent, Sir Oliver Stanley, president of the board of trade, replied: "I hope it will be possible to make an announcement on the subject early next week."

Jail Steward Is Held As 'Escape Suspect'

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 1.—(AP) Police held a steward of the Chatham county jail today pending outcome of an investigation of his identity and an escape from the Dodge county prison 20 years ago.

City Detective T. H. Ellis said the man was B. A. Wiggins and that Elton Fields, of Lyons—former Dodge county sheriff—identified him as an escaped convict.

Wiggins said he was but the man wanted.

Ellis said City Detective John McCarthy received information from the State Prison Commission that a man listed as Melton Wiggins escaped from the Dodge county prison in 1917 after serving three years of a 10-year burglary term.

WEEVILS IMPERIL STATE COTTON CROP

Pests More Numerous This Year, Yeomans Warns
Farmers.

State Entomologist Manning S. Yeomans warned Georgia cotton planters yesterday that boll weevil reports from the southern half of the state indicate the pests are much more numerous than last season.

Unless immediate steps are taken to control them, he said, heavy damage to the 1937 crop may result.

Reports of damage already have been received from Wilkes, Chipley, Savannah, Darien, Valdosta, Easton and Tifton, Yeomans said.

The beginning of activity of the weevils is several weeks later than last year, he explained, and has shown evidence of seriousness only in the past week or 10 days.

While Wilkes is the point farthest north in the state from which reports have been received, it said it was time for the weevils to begin action in the northern part of the state, and advised planters there to be on the lookout.

NAZIS IMPRISON HIGH CHURCHMAN

Reich Ministry Acts Boldly
To Crush Anti-Nazi in Evangelical Church.

BERLIN, July 1.—(UP)—The reich church ministry of Hans Kerrl, striking boldly to crush its anti-Nazi critics within the evangelical church, today arrested the Rev. Martin Niemöller, Berlin's best-known pastor, and sent him to Moabit prison.

The tall, grim-visaged pastor, like 12 of his confessional followers who went on trial in Berlin's summary court yesterday for daring to defy Kerrl's drastic church decrees, was charged with violation of an order prohibiting pulp announcements of persons withdrawing from the church.

Niemöller, called the "fighting submarine pastor" because of his World War heroism, is head of the Prussian fraternal council of the Confessional church.

Kerrl, who describes Fuehrer Adolf Hitler as Germany's "Holy Ghost" and spiritual leader of 60,000,000 people, insists that the church has no place in "practical affairs."

The arrest of the Confessional leader, who announced from his pulpit a week ago that he was the only member of the Prussian council who remained at liberty, followed by only 24 hours two decrees by Kerrl which established complete state control over the evangelical church.

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 1.—(AP) C. K. Reiff, superintendent of schools, announced the appointment today of Richard E. Shelton, of Nashville, Tenn., as instructor of physical education at Classen High school.

AGRICULTURE FEES REPORTED AS AMPLE

Department To Have Sufficient
Cash for Operation,
Roberts Says.

Commissioner of Agriculture Columbus Roberts expressed belief the department would be able to operate normally during the next six months under the new fee system which became effective with the beginning of the fiscal year 1937.

The 1937 legislature provided that starting with the new fiscal year the department would be run on 97 per cent of the fees it collected. However, fees from January to July of this year went into the state treasury.

A total of $297,000 was collected by the department the first six months.

Estimating the department will receive $75,000 in fees during the next six months, Commissioner Roberts said he had budgeted $100,000 for that period. The legislature, he said, set up a $1,000,000 fund from which the department could borrow the last six months but any money taken from this fund must be paid back from next year's fees.

The commissioner said the Agriculture Department, which received $137,500 in appropriations from January to June 30, will be able to operate on a smaller budget the remainder of the year.

Fertilizer inspectors went off the payrolls yesterday, he said, decreasing departmental costs and bringing a resultant drop in laboratory expenses.

THREE WPA GUARDS JAILED IN GOTHAM

Charged With Throwing Cripples Down Steps in Demonstration.

NEW YORK, July 1.—(AP)—Three WPA guards were arrested tonight on disorderly conduct charges which specified that they threw three cripples bodily out of the WPA headquarters building after the latter and two others participated in a sit-down demonstration of the League of Physically Handicapped.

The three, all of whom were suffering from paralysis of the legs, were taken to city hospital.

When the injured men were taken to the hospital, 200 pickets who had been demonstrating in front of the building tried to storm it but were held back by 30 policemen.

The disturbance was one of several demonstrations at various WPA offices throughout the city, the latest of a three-day series that has resulted in about 250 arrests.

Twenty-five WPA guards ejected 200 sit-down demonstrators from the WPA sewing project offices in a clash in which two women and three guards were injured. No arrest was made.

It was the second disturbance at the site within a few hours. Later a crowd of 1,000 collected around research project headquarters but dispersed when an emergency detail of 40 policemen arrived to restore a wavering cord of guards.

"It's fine," Browning said as the last visitor left the office. Manker added "he has had at least twice as much time to give to the commissioners and that has been uninterrupted."

Atlanta Society Makes Plans For Gala July Fourth Week End

By Sally Forth.

PLANS made by Atlantans for the Fourth of July week end forecast a colorful calendar of events for the throng who will celebrate Independence Day at home, or at near-by resorts. Sally hears daily of congenial groups leaving for the mountains and seashore to pass the holiday. Atlanta's colony summering at Sea Island will be augmented by the arrival of their contemporaries for the celebration of the Glorious Fourth.

Among those who have taken houses for July in the Sea Island cottage colony are Mr. and Mrs. Carson M. Sewell, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Fluker, Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Hunter, M. L. Rue, Mrs. C. J. Johnson and B. J. Grant, all of Atlanta; Mrs. S. Whitman McGonigal, of New York and Atlanta.

Atlantic Beach, that popular Florida resort, near Jacksonville, will also attract Atlantans for the gala week end. Leaving yesterday by motor for Atlantic Beach were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Oliver and their son and daughter, Herbert Jr. and Jean. The Olivers have taken a cottage at the Florida beach for July and throughout the month they will be hosts to groups of friends each week end. They were accompanied on their trip by Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Harrington and Mrs. Oliver's sisters, Miss Jean Paxton, of New York; Mrs. Bailey Locher, of Lexington, Va.; and Mrs. H. A. Shaver, of Lakeland, Fla., who will remain with them throughout this week end.

Jack Dissoway Jr. will spend the week end with Herbert Oliver Jr. and next week end Jean Oliver will be hostess to Barbara Shedd, of Birmingham, Ala., and Tommie Johnson. Others who will visit Jean while she and her parents are ensconced in their cottage by the sea are Roddy Reid, of Rock Hill, S. C.; Tom Major, of Nashville, Tenn.; Alton Sartor, of Sheporeport, La.; William Runge, of Birmingham, Ala.; and Sarah Feeney and Jack Chambers, of this city.

Another Atlanta group enjoying the coast of Florida includes Mr. and Mrs. Goodrum Norris and their brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Arthur, of Athens. The foursome is at the Norris attractive home at Wadega, Fla., an ideal spot for a vacation, where the Norris boat adds much merriment to the out-of-door outings.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Ashcraft, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Porter and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Newell will spend this week end at the Highlands Country Club in North Carolina, where so many Atlantans are spending the summer.

Tate Estates will also attract Atlantans for the week end who will visit friends at their summer homes at this popular Georgia mountain resort. Among hosts will be Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Martin, Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Ott Alston, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Dobbins and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Winship. Although Mr. and Mrs. Goodloe Yancey are traveling in Europe, they arranged before their departure for a group of close friends to enjoy their home at Tate mountain over July Fourth week end.

THOSE erstwhile Atlantans, Mrs. Charles Meador and her daughter, Mrs. Thomas W. Palmer, are receiving a royal welcome from Atlanta friends during their short visit here. They are visiting Mrs. Stewart H. Jones and her mother, Mrs. L. D. McDonald, at the former's home on Tuxedo road. Mrs. Palmer is the former Julia Meador, whom Sally recalls as one of society's most popular belles when she lived here during her young ladyhood. Since she and her husband, Tom Palmer, established residence in Miami ten years ago they have been prominently identified with that city's social life. There was never a more beloved Atlantian than Mrs. Meador, who now resides with the Palmers in Miami and whose visits back home are entirely too infrequent to think her host of Atlanta friends.

Mrs. Jones has invited a small group of friends for tea today to greet Mrs. Palmer as well as to bid goodbye to the hostess who leaves early next week for her summer home at Sharon, Conn.

WHEN Jean Blakelock became the bride of Lieutenant Clifton Lee MacLachlan, U. S. A., at the post chapel on Wednesday evening, she carried, in lieu of a bouquet, a handsome white prayer book, showered with fragrant valley lilies. The book was a gift from the members of St. Helena's Circle of St. Luke's church.

When Jean came to the city for residence she became a regu-

Miss Ruth Stewart Weds Mr. Collins

The marriage of Miss Ruth Stewart and Arthur Wood Collins was quietly solemnized at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the bride's home on Bellevue drive, in the presence of only the immediate families. Dr. Stuart R. Oglesby, pastor of Central Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony.

The vows were taken before an improvised altar banked with palms and ferns. A large basket or white gladioli and swansonia was placed against the background.

Preceding the bride to the altar was her matron of honor and only attendant, Mrs. Arnold G. Martin, of Jacksonville, Fla., sister of the bride. Her gown was peach chiffon over peach taffeta, and she carried a bouquet of garden flowers. The groom's best man was his brother, Johnson Collins.

The bride entered the living room with her brother-in-law, Arnold G. Martin, who gave her in marriage. Her gown was of mouseline de sole over white taffeta. Valley lilies formed the headpiece of her off-the-face veil of tulle, and she carried a shower bouquet of valley lilies tied with white satin ribbon.

After the ceremony a reception was held by Mrs. H. C. Groves, sister of the bride. The dining room table was overlaid with a lace cloth and the wedding cake graced the center of the table. Little Miss Jeanne Etta Martin, daughter of the bride, kept the bride's book.

The couple left by motor on their wedding trip. Mrs. Collins' going-away dress was of navy tulle chignon featuring a delft blue finger-tip cape. With it she wore navy blue accessories and her bouquet was of white gardenias.

Miss Boykin Tells How To Make Your Home More Pleasant

Your Figure, Madam

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

CLOTHES TELL WEIGHT TALES

Your last summer's frock will tell where you have gained! Clothes are a much more reliable indication of what is happening to your figure than are the scales. Since, on the screen, the tiniest surplus shows up as glaring overweight, Hollywood is the world's most weight-conscious colony. Marjorie Gatenon, dashing sophisticate in the streamlined "Vogues of 1938," has to have a good figure for such a role. Of all the actresses I met in Hollywood, Miss Gatenon seemed most perfectly to combine the charm of maturity with the vitality of youth. Her figure program is so sane and healthful that it makes an excellent pattern for the woman past thirty.

"Inches are so much more important than pounds," says Miss Gatenon. "As soon as your clothes get a little snug, start exercising. Instead of letting out seams, take a tuck in your measurements." This is her credo: "Never let weight go up more than three pounds. Past three pounds the waistband tightens and seams feel the strain. That's when I get busy!"

Stretching goes a long way.

Miss Gatenon's program is not strenuous, but is regular. She makes a practice of walking up and down stairs whenever possible—the buildings don't grow so tall out in California. Instead of telephoning the grocer, she advises the housewife, walk to the store but have the bundles delivered so as not to interfere with the brisk walk home.

Like many of the other screen players, Miss Gatenon likes to take her exercise out in fun. She plays tennis on the average of three times a week and always plays doubles, because that makes the game less strenuous.

Doing exercise at home is dull, this trim actress admits, but, as she says, a little goes a long way and 10-minute stretching will keep the waistline right in its place. Miss Gatenon always allows time during the day. Then she relaxes completely. To keep on your toes constantly wastes your energy and puts lines in your face. "Be a jellyfish," she says, "for at least 20 minutes a day."

You have to have vitality to keep going at your best. Moderate exercise and a balanced diet are the best way for any woman to keep her measurements in trim.

Avoid drastic dieting. Miss Gatenon would tell you, for it isn't smart to keep slim at the expense of your face.

Shopping with Sallybelle

Sallybelle plunges in one of your favorite sport shops and comes up in a sea-worthy cloque pique dressmaker bathing suit printed in hot Mexican colors. It has a wool jersey lining and snug-fitting uplift bra, and looks twice its price. In fact, she found so many gay new things for you at such small cost.

Young moderns will make a dash for these quaint blue denim short-sleeved shirts with red stitching. Just the thing to wear with them is a shirt made of old-fashion red bandanna kerchiefs. Sallybelle was so enamored of the shirt she plans to wear it with her white suit. It sounds rustic but looks oh! so sophisticated.

Ideal to wear with play clothes is the kedette sketched at the top. It comes in all-white as well as white and combination of colors. For the beach the favorite is the string beach sandal. The shiny straw beach hat at the bottom really protects you from the sun and comes in such gay combination of colors.

It's fun to play when you wear a shirt of imported kerchiefs in Paisley pattern with marvelous fitted tile-colored shorts that have two pockets in front and button with a big pearl button in the back.

All of Sallybelle's holiday play clothes were sketched in Atlanta stores. For information call The Constitution Fashion Department, WA. 6565.

PLAY CLOTHES FOR THE HOLIDAY

Pleasant Homes

By ELIZABETH McRAE BOYKIN

JUST IN CASE.

When you buy too much curtain material—"just in case"—make yourself a dress to match.

We are always buying too much material for a spread or a curtain "just in case." So, we've had to think up ways to use up our extra pieces of bright material, because "wilful waste makes woeful want" or so our great aunt convinced us at an early age.

Anyway, we've found so many ways to use up odd lengths that we now find ourselves buying too much on purpose.

For the kitchen, of course, it's fun to make simple aprons or bright work dresses of the same clever and pretty chintz at the windows—or maybe it's red and white gingham or a becoming delphinium blue percale. For "let-down" evenings when a lady serves snacks in the breakfast room, try making yourself a romantic house-coat whose colors will harmonize with your informal table setting. A deep blue cloth with ex-bloo powder and rouge and preside romantically over the waffle iron next Sunday morning.

For lounging in the bedroom on those afternoons dedicated to face-fixings and the family mending, why not a pretty "dirdndi" type dress, long and full and easy to get into—to say nothing of being eminently becoming—made of either the same material as the bedroom draperies—such as a glazed chintz with full-blown old-fashioned roses perhaps, or else ice-blue taffeta—or a contrasting material.

For sheer glamour. And for sheer glamour, make yourself a damask house-coat to match your winter draperies. Get yourself some old-gold earrings, burn a few cones of scented candles, and watch your intimate friends relax in your maven age setting.

Children, too, may like to feel akin to their background. Little summer bathrobes made of the same figured chintz or percale that decorates their nursery windows will please them greatly as well as satisfy your aesthetic eye. Woodard-Mixon. CORDELE, Ga., July 1.—The marriage of Miss Gladys Estelle Woodard and Lee Buford Mixon was quietly solemnized Friday at the home of Judge W. P. Fleming, who officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Mixon are making their home on Eighth avenue, East.

Zeta Beta Chi Party.

The Zeta Beta Chi Sorority entertained with a swimming party and breakfast on Sunday at the East Lake Country Club.

Present were Mesdames Jack Cowan, George Hartzel and Misses Tommie Wells, Gladys Williams, Dora Fineroff, Frances Zeiler, Marion Hohen, Olivia Herren, Kathleen Rodgers, Minnie May Rogers, Ann Gaynor, Rose Rioran, Elizabeth Latham, Ellen Cawder, Fay Alexander, Edith Horton, Fannie Fineroff and Katherine Arwood.

other "cycle of three," the second within the month. The colony did not have long to wait. Six days later Colin Clive, prominent British actor, best known for his performance of Captain Stanhope in "Journey's End," died after a short illness. He was only 37 years old.

The devastating "cycle of three" may not immediately write its third name in this second set, at least Hollywood hopes not. But it wouldn't gamble on it.

The highly sensitive condition of the foreign film market at the moment is causing no end of worry in the studios. Quite naturally, it would, too, because the rapid development of movie trade abroad has made the United States only a contributing factor in the revenue derived from Hollywood productions.

Twenty years ago the foreign film market amounted to nothing and wasn't even recognized by American producers. Today every scenario must first be weighed on the international scales before it can be given a production okay.

Just now the Hays office is trying to smooth out disagreements with Germany, China, Mexico and England over questionable matter contained in several big features of recent releases.

Universal was forced to take much of the punch out of "The Road Back" because of threats of a Hitler ban. "War Lord" has run into difficulties with the Chinese ambassador and must be remade in part. "Madame Walewska" (The New Garbo) carries a few scenes that may prove annoying to France. "The King and the Chorus Girl" has been banned altogether in England.

Even Washington is making faces at Hollywood. The navy has warned R.-K.-O. to be very careful how it goes about filming that new patriotic special, "Annapolis Salute."

Home Institute—Keep Up-to-Date With Atlas

SEE THE WORLD THROUGH MAPS AND FACTS.

You have to know your world these days to be alert and well informed. See it with your atlas! To follow the news, to have your say in conversation, you must be acquainted with Washington, London, Paris—where news pops continuously. And who knows when the spotlight will fall on some out-of-the-way section of the globe?

When King Zog, of Albania, hits the papers, it's fun to know that, in the north of his queer little country, communications are still by pack train, yet the principal cities are connected by a regular air transport system.

This year, when England stole the front page news, didn't it help your sense of values to know England's one-third the size of Texas? Talking of size, have you heard of Tannu-Tuwa? It's an independent country big enough to sink all of England in, sandwiched between Russia and Mongolia. The people, Tuvians, mine gold and asbestos, raise flocks.

Conferences, treaties, even wars, hinge on world trade. Do you know your country's part in this continuous struggle? United States raises almost half the world's corn, almost two-fifths of the world's cotton. Coal, iron and oil are our chief sources of mineral wealth.

Our up-to-date 40-page World Atlas and International Gazetteer with maps printed in full color gives you a mental picture of sizes and locations of all countries. NOW SEE HERE WHAT I TELL YOU.

Please do not advise elderly people, at least, to regard the act of elimination in the casual way you have heretofore, admonishes one of my correspondents. It seems an elderly person succumbing while straining, and the doctor's verdict was that the effort of straining had caused death, since the elderly person had had a weak heart.

There are several words in this admonition which I don't like. First, I take exception to the use of the term "elimination" in that way. It is not elimination, nor excretion, but defecation. Even Dr. Webster who is always flexible in definition does not attempt to substitute these words for defecation. Then, although manifestly not squeamish, I cringe a bit at the use of the term "verdict" when it is perfectly clear that the correspondent means merely conjecture or surmise.

Finally, I object to the implication that I advise straining. On the contrary my advice is never to strain or fuss about the movement of the bowel. Let it alone. Pay no attention to it, except to answer the call when it comes or when you can conveniently do so. If the

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

MONTCHANIN, Del., Wednesday.—The first time I awoke this morning I looked out of the window and was greeted by the usual early morning Washington mist. For a little while I wondered whether we were going to have uncertain weather for the wedding. I remembered how anxiously we watched the skies at Hyde Park when various country weddings took place, and I felt sure that Mr. and Mrs. du Pont were watching it just as anxiously today, so I was glad when, with the rising sun, the day seemed clear and settled.

The few old friends who spent last night with us in order to go over from Washington with us today on the train, were up and breakfasted with me on the porch at 8 o'clock. We all left the White House at 8:50, standard time.

The details surrounding a trip of this kind are very complicated. Cars have to take us to the station, and then they have to meet us tomorrow morning in Poughkeepsie. Other cars have to meet us in Wilmington and they have to be sent on ahead. The same thing holds good of secret service protection. Bags have to be sorted out. When we first get on the train everybody is looking for some particular piece of baggage which hasn't turned up in their compartment. Mrs. Scheider and I are usually looking for a typewriter because there are so many typewriters on the train we are always a little nervous that ours may be lost or appropriated by someone else. After all, all typewriters look somewhat alike and tags do get torn off.

My brother drove down to the station in the car with my husband and myself. Before we started I made sure the people I was really responsible for were on the train and had a place to sit. Now Mrs. Scheider and I are in my compartment and the trip seems to be going very quickly. We reach Wilmington in ample time for my husband and myself to be with the rest of our family at Mr. and Mrs. du Pont's for lunch.

I have a curiously detached feeling about all the photographs in the newspapers and all the stories about this wedding. It somehow seems to me as though it could not really be our own children, or even ourselves. Perhaps the effect of schooling yourself for years to look upon both criticism and praise in an objective manner does this peculiar thing to you. You feel that all publicity is not about you or yours as individuals, but about some people who have very little to do with you except that as public figures they are out in the public eye to be written about. I wonder if all the people in public life have this sense of dual personality.

I always have a sense that occasions of any kind are not times during which you live, they are just times when you live through. Later they may leave you something of significance, or they may melt in that vast limbo of official occasions which belong to the personality which is not really yourself, but an official representative doing an official job.

call doesn't come on schedule, no matter. Let it go.

Let it go how long? Never mind. Do you intend to follow my advice or that of some quack whose notions are more to your liking?

I don't care how badly you have disarranged things with your internal interference. Let it go, forget it, put your mind on other things and nature will resume control just as soon as you let go for good.

The great trouble with you wiseacres is that you think you know more than I do about physiology and pathology. If you feel that way, all right. Go on. It is nothing to my young life. I'm just telling you. Take it or leave it. But for goodness sake don't try to cajoled me. Don't make a half-hearted start and then, the moment you realize you are about to try an experiment, rush back to your pill or your fancy "aid," whatever it may be.

I have done my damndest to make you wiseacres see how you got that way. I have been penalized, in fact, for my efforts in your behalf. There are interests that resent popular health education. I'd like to have you meet some of them some day. From the cradle up you have been constantly frightened by the bogeyman of "auto-intoxication" if you get too far away from the pill box. My feeble voice is audible to millions of you, but many being wiseacres, can't understand the simple physiological truth. I'm sorry for you, but there's nothing more I can do about it.

Colquitt Chapter Honors Mrs. Brown.

The Alfred Colquitt Chapter, U. D. C., entertained at a shower recently in compliment to Mrs. J. G. Wood at the home of Mrs. Paul Stegall. The shower was in the nature of a farewell party for Mrs. Brown, who leaves soon to visit her father, L. L. Le Receau, at his home in Le Mans, France, and her sister, Madame Louis De Smet, in Brussels, Belgium.

Mrs. Brown, who is a valued member of the Colquitt Chapter, will sail July 14 on the S. S. Normandie. She will return in the early fall on the Ile de France.

Switzerland has grocery stores in the form of trucks carrying about 100 staple foods to the housewife.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence involving personal matters will be handled in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield care of The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

After 13 years I have about given up trying to find solution to my problem. When my husband isn't working he is riding around, stopping at the houses of acquaintances; particularly in the neighborhood, though I must say these people he visits never return his calls. Thinking that I might be responsible for their failure to come to see us I made the rounds and invited them to call on us—but they have never come. I have to do all the work at our house and so I haven't a great deal of time for trotting, but I did test it out to be sure I wasn't responsible for the neighbors' staying away from us. Before I make some important plans I would like to hear your opinion of this state of affairs.

MRS. S.

Take your hands out of the dishpan long enough to polish your nails. Leave off the housework long enough to go shopping and get yourself a few attractive clothes (summer dresses are inexpensive) and show him that you have some life left in you. Your husband probably will take his bed from shock but when he gets up and wants to go, go along with him. Instead of paying test visits on the neighbors, just to see if they will return your visits, show yourself friendly. Leave your suspensiveness at home and let the neighbors see you are not a dud.

It may take you some time to come out of the kinks but there's a will there's a way and you can find it.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Mimosa Club.

The Mimosa Garden Club held its annual meeting at the Scottish rite hospital recently, with Mrs. W. F. Shallenberger as hostess. After the business meeting Mrs. Blouett Lee gave a delightful talk on the various flowering trees, shrubs and plants that she had seen on her recent trip around the world. Tea was served to the members of the club, the children and the staff of the hospital.

The Story of the Season Is This New Summer Cleansing Mixture

By LILLIAN MAE.

Do you hate to use a cleansing cream in summer because you dislike the greasy, sticky feeling? Then, sisters, lend me your ears!

For the past week I've been using an entirely new preparation which, incidentally, is just today being put on sale. But I prophesy that many will be the sales of the product.

The manufacturer tells me that she has long felt the need of just such a cleanser, and that many have been her experiments before she was finally ready to put her cream on the market.

Light and frosty cool, it resembles in appearance finely grained vanilla ice cream at the point where it is just beginning to melt the tiniest bit. And the cooling, refreshing feeling that it produces is not unsimilar.

There is no denying the fact that a cleansing cream should be used in all seasons even if its use is followed by soap and water. A cream is necessary to sink into the pores and bring out the grime which lodges there, and which water will not effectively remove. And hot weather faces about your day's doings and asked him what he'd been up to.

Take your hands out of the dishpan long enough to polish your nails. Leave off the housework long enough to go shopping and get yourself a few attractive clothes (summer dresses are inexpensive) and show him that you have some life left in you. Instead of paying test visits on the neighbors, just to see if they will return your visits, show yourself friendly. Leave your suspensiveness at home and let the neighbors see you are not a dud.

HOLLYWOOD, July 1.—Fear and uncertainty grip superstitious Hollywood as actors scan the colony's ominous death list of the last 30 days.

Crackers Lose Final to Travelers, 9-4; Rose, Hooks Homer

FOUR PITCHERS FAIL TO BAFFLE LITTLE ROCKERS

Bobby Durham To Face Chicks Tonight in Series Opener.

By JACK TROY.

In a game that saw each team getting 10 hits, the Little Rock Travelers walloped the Crackers, 9-4, and managed to depart town with no worse than an even break in the five-game series. The tie game of Tuesday night will be played off on the next trip of the Pebbles to Atlanta.

The loss of last night cost the Crackers third place in the standings and an opportunity to whitewash Little Rock's lead to five and one-half games.

Last night's paid attendance was 4,357. And the crowd got quite a belt out of the homers by Hooks and Rose, although they were wasted efforts in so far as the Cracker cause was concerned.

Emil Leonard essayed a comeback, but palpably was not himself and retired in the seventh when the first three men got on.

base. Little Rock was leading, 3 to 0, at the time. Jim Trexler wasn't himself either. He walked one and hit one, giving Little Rock two charity runs. Lawrence Miller carried on and there were two more runs, one on an infield out and the other on two more walks. Williams pitched the last two innings.

The Pebbles hit to get runners on the bases in the seventh, but three of the four runs were forced across the plate.

Two of the Crackers' four runs were the result of home runs by Alex Hooks and Eddie Rose. Hooks hit his in the sixth, Rose led off the ninth with a homer.

The Travelers' double play combination of Griffiths to Niemiec to O'Neil was functioning in great Just Imagine Shooting Forty Feet Down to Reach the Green!

PUERTO RICO, June 27.—(By Air-Mail.)—Providencia is an artist with food.

She came in with the Puerto Rican dish, asopoa, which is chicken and rice and capers and mushrooms and pimientos and tomatoes and peppers and onions—and other items which add to its flavor.

And I don't know which was more intriguing, Providencia's dish, asopoa, or the El Morro golf course.

Providencia is a Spanish girl from the mountain town of Cayey. And she works for Captain and Mrs. B. M. McFayden here at Puerto Rico. Mrs. McFayden was Miss Courtney Ross, of Atlanta, before she became Mrs. McFayden. When the destroyer Dickerson reached here in this annual Odyssey of the N. R. O. T. C. unit from Georgia Tech, they took me in and put me in a room with wide windows through which the trade winds blow. But that is another story.

The El Morro golf course is located within the walls of the old El Morro fort which withstood the assaults of all Spain's foes until 1898.

There are nine holes with a par of 35. The first tee offers an expanse of fairway, but there is the trade wind.

The second try calls for something new. The green is located 40 feet BELOW the fairway in the bottom of the old fort moat. A large arrow on the wall of the fort indicates the green.

Now, the moat is wide—about 60 feet. But very few golfers can pitch down into that moat. Too, too often the ball hits the side of the moat and bounds somewhere out to sea.

The second hole has a tee high on an old gun emplacement. The green is in another section of the moat and may not be seen. A slice causes the ball to bound from wall to wall, going goodness knows where.

And, so help me, if No. 3 tee isn't down in the moat and one must clear the high wall of the moat or the ball will bound back into the Atlantic.

No. 4 is famous. It is a water hole and the floor of the ocean is covered with lost balls. One's right shoulder is almost in the water as one swings on the green, which is high on an old Spanish gun emplacement. The drive must go across the Atlantic ocean—well, not all of it, of course. But a part of it. The slightest hook is in the briny deep. I thought of Robert Lee Dodd and his shanking.

Five, six and seven are tough holes. But just good golf holes. Except that, on seven, an overdrive sends one into the sea.

Eight has a green which must be reached with a dogleg around one of the old corners of the fort.

And nine follows the old wall.

Walter Cope, former Alabama state champion, is the champion here. He holds the course record, a 30. Cope is secretary to Governor Winship, of Georgia.

That, my friends, is a golf course.

ANOTHER OLD FORT—WITH A MYSTERY.

There is another old fort here—with a mystery. San Cristobal castle was built in 1634, a mere 306 years ago. There was a Spanish Irishman, Thomas O'Daly, of the Royal Spanish Engineers, who built it. He was an architect. A real one.

The old fort is there yet—every stone of her.

It was the only fort to reply to Sampson's guns in 1898. And it has a story of its own. Tunnels run from it to the other forts. And it has three stories the others do not have.

There is the captain, who painted in the dark.

There is the miracle of San Cristobal.

And there is the haunted sentry box.

We went today—Captain McFayden, Mrs. McFayden, Miss Courtney and young Ross—a most amazing

JOE LOUIS, FARR FIGHT IS SOUGHT FOR EARLY FALL

Jacobs Closes Deal With Farr; Schmeling Won't
Answer.

NEW YORK, July 1.—(P)—Indications tonight were that Tommy Farr and not Max Schmeling will be Joe Louis' opponent in the negro's first defense of his newly won heavyweight title.

Failing to get a decision from Schmeling, one way or the other, Promoter Mike Jacobs today closed with Farr by trans-Atlantic telephone to come here and fight the Brown Bomber in one of the New York ball parks early in September.

"I wanted Schmeling," said Jacobs, "but apparently Max doesn't want the fight. Anyway, he will not reply to my cables, so I am going ahead with Farr." The Welshman, recent conqueror of both Ben Ford and Max Baer, can have 20 per cent of the net gate for his end, or a flat guarantee, the amount of which Jacobs would not disclose.

"I have cabled him to be ready to sail in two weeks. In the meantime, my attorney, Sol Strauss, now on his way to Europe, will see Farr and his manager and have contracts signed."

Farr's acceptance of the Louis fight means he definitely is not going through with his proposed bout with Schmeling in London, September 1. The war was to have been advertised as for the "world's heavyweight championship."

Jacobs Plans Big Fight Card

NEW YORK, July 1.—(P)—One of the most ambitious fight programs ever attempted, with four world's champions doing their stuff on the same card, is planned by Mike Jacobs for the Yankee stadium next month.

The lineup: Marcel Thil, world's middleweight champion in some quarters, vs. Fred Apostoli, of San Francisco, 15 rounds.

Lou Ambers vs. Pedro Montanez for the lightweight championship of the world, 12 rounds. Barney Ross vs. Ceferino Garcia for the world's welterweight championship, 15 rounds.

Sixto Escobar vs. either K. O. Morgan, of Detroit, or Harry Jeffra, of Baltimore, for the bantamweight title, 15 rounds.

"The show will be held either August 25 or 26," Jacobs said today.

Jack Doyle May Fight Louis.

CHICAGO, July 1.—(P)—Jack Doyle, the Irish heavyweight, said tonight that "only a few details have to be ironed out" before he and Champion Joe Louis are matched for a bout in London this summer by Mike Jacobs, New York promoter.

Doyle, who stopped here briefly on his way to the west coast on business, said he talked with Jacobs yesterday and that he planned to return to London to begin training if the match definitely is scheduled.

Negotiations have been under way by Jacobs to have Louis meet either Doyle, Ben Ford or Len Harvey in London with the possibility Louis will meet the British titleholder, Tommy Farr, in this country next September.

OBIE'S RECORD IS IMPRESSIVE

There are few colored heavyweights in this country that have a better record than Bearcat Obie Walker, who will fight Jess Caldwell, of New York, at the West End arena on July 6.

Obie, who has fought leading heavies of this country and Europe, has won 128 fights and lost one 10-round decision. He has never been on the floor.

They do say that if Obie had the proper connections, he could be where Joe Louis is today.

In his long tour of Europe recently, the Atlanta heavyweight was given a great reception. He received reams of favorable publicity. Europeans went wild over his fistful ability.

Atlantans will be given a chance to see the best colored fighter turned out in this town since the days of Tiger Flowers on next Tuesday night.

TRACK GREATS TO TEST MARKS AT MILWAUKEE

Towns, Packard and Walker Among Stars in A. A. U. Meet.

MILWAUKEE, July 1.—(P)—The upper register of America's track and field talent, and its stars of the future, will man the annual assault on records during the next two days in the Amateur Athletic Union's golden jubilee championship meet.

With few exceptions, the established greats—the Cunninghams, San Romanis, Woodruffs, Peacocks, Seftons, Meadows, Beetons, Johnsons, Albrittons, Burkes and Walkers—will be in the struggle to retain or gain national championships in the senior feature Saturday. Before they go to work, youngsters with their careers ahead of them will battle it out for junior titles Friday night.

Wearied from the grind of the cup matches and hampered by fierce weather most of the players played a few holes and quit, but Sam Snead, hitting the ball magnificently, paired with Hagen to beat Horton Smith and Ed Dudley, 2 and 1.

Engel Starts Drive To Buy Lookouts

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 1.—(P)—Joe Engel, scout for the Washington Senators and former president of the Chattanooga Lookouts, announced tonight that he was starting a campaign to purchase the ball club here.

"We can buy the club for about $150,000," he said, adding, "and that is dirt cheap."

Under Engel's plan, the Chattanooga Times said in a sports page story, he and some prominent businessmen would own a bare controlling interest and the rest would be sold to the local fans for sums ranging from $1 (one dollar) up.

Cubs Sweep Series From Cards; Yanks Defeat Athletics, 12-7

BERGER CLOTS PINCH HOME RUN TO BEAT PHILS

Win Is Fifth Straight for Giants; Bees Take Sixth in Row.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. The league-leading Chicago Cubs swept a three-game series from the Cardinals, winning the final contest Thursday, 6 to 3. The hit that kept the Cubs from slipping below the New York Giants was Ripper Collins' home run with two on in the fifth inning.

Wally Berger came through in the clutch, clouting a pinch-homer with two out in the ninth inning and two mates on base to give the Giants an 8-to-6 victory over the Phillies.

The homer, hit off Syl Johnson, who relieved Bucky Walters as Berger came to bat, made it a clean sweep for the Cubs in the three-game series with the Phils, and stretched the New Yorkers' winning streak to five straight.

The circuit clout broke up the ball game after the Phils had gone in front with a run in their half of the ninth. It was an up-and-down affair all the way, with the Giants leading, 4-3, in the third inning, the Phils in front, 5-4, in the seventh, and the Giants tying it up in the eighth.

Mel Ott hit his 17th homer for the Giants in the eighth, and Herschel Martin, Phil rookie, collected four hits, one of them a homer.

The Bees made it four straight over the Dodgers and stretched their winning streak to six in a row by topping the Brooklyn, 4 to 1, behind Johnny Lanning's pitching.

The only consolation feature for the Dodgers was their lone run, which came in the seventh inning and thereby ended a string of 36 consecutive scoreless innings they have suffered in the four-game Boston series.

The aging Waite Hoyt and Lanning hooked up in a pitchers' duel for seven innings. Boston scored a run in the fifth on consecutive singles by Elbie Fletcher, Al Lopez and Lanning and a wild throw by Babe Phelps. In the seventh, Brooklyn tied it up on a walk, Phelps' single and Cookie Lavagetto's fly.

New York Yankees won and lost yesterday, clubbing the Athletics for 14 hits and a 12-to-7 victory, but at the expense of an injury to their heavy-hitting outfielder, George Selkirk.

Selkirk fell hard in making a running shoe-top catch of Jack Rothrock's fly in the seventh. His injured right shoulder was inspected at the Presbyterian hospital, and he left with the team for Washington last night after the hurt was diagnosed as slight.

The Yanks clustered their runs in three innings, getting two in the first and five each in the fifth and eighth. In the fifth inning spurge, Joe DiMaggio batted out his 16th homer and Jake Powell pounded his first of the year. Powell also had three singles to lead the attack.

The Chicago White Sox celebrated Manager Jim Dykes' 1937 debut at third base by banging four Detroit pitchers for 20 hits and a 15-8 victory. The 41-year-old Dykes, whose previous participation in his 20th big league season, had been limited to two futile pinch-hitting appearances, himself led the slugfest with a double, three singles and a walk for a perfect day. He drove in three of the runs.

The victory gave the Chicagoans the series, two games to one, and increased their second-place margin to two games.

Clatus Poffenberger, rookie right-hander getting his first major league starting chance on his 21st birthday, Roxy Lawson, George Gill and Schoolboy Rowe were all victims of the Sox barrage.

Washington's Senators defeated the Boston Red Sox, 3 to 2, behind the effective pitching of Jimmy De Shong.

Jack Wilson held the winners to eight hits and struck out eight. He also drove across both of the Boston runs with singles. De Shong allowed nine hits.

Cecil Travis started the winning rally in the sixth when he doubled to left and scored on a single by Rick Ferrell.

style and twice cuta down would-be Cracker rallies.

Tonight at 8:30 o'clock the Crackers will open a six-game series with the league-leading Memphis Chickasaws. Bobby Durham will open for the Crackers. Earl Dwyer is expected to work for the Chickasaws who come here nine and one-half games ahead of the fourth place Crackers.

The Chickasaws have the power and the pitching. And it is in this six-game series that will rest the home nine's hopes for the 1937 pennant.

LUBY HOLDS BALL. Luby's failure to throw the ball to first base in time on a sure double play set the stage for the Travelers to score three runs off Leonard in the second inning.

After O'Neill fled to Mauldin, Thompson singled to left. Griffith was hit by a pitched ball. Then Shome grounded out to Hill, who threw to Luby, forcing Griffiths. Luby held the ball, finally threw it to Hooks. But it was too late then. Sharpe beat the throw by about a step. There would have been no runs had Luby thrown the ball when he should have.

The Crackers scored one in the second. Malhoi tripled off the corner of the signs in right and scored on Chatham's infield smash.

Hooks' home run over the second tier of signs in right gave the Crackers their second run in the sixth.

GIVE GAME AWAY. The Crackers practically gave the game away in the seventh. The Travelers scored three runs on two walks and a hit batsman and got their fourth on an infield out.

Leonard weakened in the seventh and Nonnenkamp doubled.

TRACK GREATS TO TEST MARKS

under the floodlights at Marquette University's stadium.

As usual, the five-star thriller is expected to develop when Glenn Cunningham, grand old man of the country's middle-distance forces and the world's most consistent foot-racer at a mile or its metric equivalent, the 1,500 meters, once again answers the challenge of little Archie San Romani, Gene Venzke, Chuck Fenske and the rest of a star-studded field Saturday afternoon. The 800 meters figures to be hardly less spectacular with Chuck Beetham, of Ohio State, battling to retain his title against striding John Woodruff, Pittsburgh's Olympic champion; Ross Bush, of Southern California; Vic Palmason, of Washington; and Abie Rosenkrantz, of Michigan State Normal.

In the dashes, strong fields will seek the championship mantles relinquished by Jesse Owens and Ralph Metcalfe. Both of the professionals, leaving Owens' 200-meter title and Metcalfe's 200-meter crown up for competition among Eulace Peacock, the 1935 champion; Sammy Stoller, of Michigan; Marty Glickman, of Syracuse; Bobby Grice, of Illinois; Perrin Walker, and Robert Rodenkirchen, of the New York A. C., and Georgia's Bob Packard.

Another notable absentee will be Indiana's Don Lash, a great miler and a greater traveler at longer distances, who will be operated on for appendicitis tomorrow at Auburn, Ind.

Other 1936 champions who will defend are Forrest (Spec) Towns, of Georgia, Olympic champion and world record holder in the 110-meter high hurdles; James Hamilton Hucker, of Cornell and the New York A. C., in the 200-meter hurdles; Billy Brown, of Baker, La., in the hop, step and jump; Dmitri Zaitz, of Boston College, whose task in the shot put will be made easier by the absence of Nebraska's Pam Francis, who has decided not to compete; Ken Carpenter, Olympic discus champion, who will run into the 1932 Olympic winner, John Anderson; John Moltram, of the Olympic Club, of San Francisco, in the javelin; George Varoff, official record holder at 14 feet, 6 1/2 inches in the pole vault, and Bill Rowe, of the New York A. C., in the hammer throw.

Stanley Holditch Squares Match at 28th, But Loses, 4 and 3

HAAS TO MEET D'ANTONI TODAY IN SEMI-FINALS

Jacket Gets Eagle Two at 28th, But Loses Next Four Holes.

By FREDDIE HAAS.
OAKMONT COUNTRY CLUB, July 1.—It seems to me as though I have heard some appropriate song which goes like "You Take the North But I Will Take the South." Nothing could be more synonymous with the manner in which this intercollegiate tournament is turning for the semi-finals. Bill Barclay, University of Michigan star, is the sole survivor of the three gents from below the Mason and Dixon line from carrying said trophy in that direction. Barclay is also upholding the honors gained last year by his teammate, Chuck Kochis.

Paul Leslie, L. S. U., is the first gent who will attempt to stop Barclay and Bill in turn will be trying to bar the door to Leslie entering the finals for the second straight year.

In the bottom bracket, Vincent D'Antoni, Tulane, and I are the survivors and opponents for the 36-hole semi-final round.

It really looks bad for me any turn that I should make, because during the spring Vincent defeated me in three straight matches. And even if I should get by Vincent and have to play Paul, then the fact that he beat me in the finals of the southern intercollegiate in 1935 and last year poured it on me in the semi-finals of this tournament, will be staring me in the face.

CAN BEAT BARCLAY.

Poor Bill is the only person I should figure to beat on paper, because I nosed him out in the quarter-finals of this tournament at North Shore last year.

Les is really hitting the ball well, he is mentally prepped for this tournament and I pick him to win. The match between Vincent and myself is a toss-up and I will make no prognostications.

Vincent really has some incentive to win this tournament because if he does his parents will present him with a brand-new convertible sedan of the finest make.

Vincent says he already has his eye on said automobile and admits that he would like it to be of the blue variety if he should come through.

In my match today with Harvey Johnson, Georgetown, two holes were played pretty well. In the first hole in the afternoon Harvey sinks a 30-yard chip shot for an eagle to beat my birdie but on the ninth hole I sank a 20-foot putt for an eagle which beat his birdie. It was a lot of fun when I sank mine but when he dropped in I became suddenly rather skeptical of the outcome.

HOLDITCH REALIZES.

Talking about eagles reminds me of six holes Stanley Holditch, Georgia Tech, played against Vincent. On the 23rd hole Stanley was four down. He made a great explosion shot to a down sloping green to halve the hole with a par. He earned a nice putt for a deuce on the next hole to win. On the 25th he halved the hole with a bogey; but sank a chip shot for another deuce on the 26th hole to be only two down. A good birdie on 27 put him one down and he holed out an iron shot for an eagle 2 on the 465 yard 10th or 28th hole. At this stage he stood even with eight to play, after being four down and 14 to go.

Vincent admitted that he was getting worried about that time.

Freddie Haas Goes Into Semi-Finals

Freddie Haas, slender L. S. U. ace, displayed deft putting touch to advance to the semi-finals of the National Intercollegiate golf tournament at Oakmont. The Southern champion yesterday eliminated Harvey Johnson, of Georgetown, 7 and 5. He meets Vincent D'Antoni, of Tulane, in the feature semi-final match today. Haas is covering the tournament for The Constitution.

STEELMEN MEET WARREN TONIGHT

The baseball game between the teams of Atlantic Steel and Warren that was previously announced for last night, will be played tonight on the Warren athletic field at 8:30 o'clock.

This will be the second game of a series between the two teams, Atlantic Steel having scored three runs in the ninth inning at Glenn field last Tuesday afternoon to take the first game by a score of 5 to 4.

Guy Green, righthander and coach of the 1937 Cracker pitching staff, will do the hurling duties for the Dixie Steel nine tonight, while Lefty Eidson, formidable portside, will be on the mound for the refrigerator makers.

Warren's completely revamped team will play its first night game of the season tonight while the Steel boys will also get their first glimpse of the lights this year.

New players on the Warren squad include Alf and Marion Anderson, who hold down second base and shortstop, respectively, and are graduates of the University of Georgia and sons of Frank Anderson, the Oglethorpe baseball coach. Asa Wall and Ed Clements are graduates of Oglethorpe, while Norman Whitten, new catcher, is from Auburn and Joe Bullock, outfielder, is from the Florida Gators.

but fortunately for him he won the 29th hole with a bogey and then won the next three holes to become four up again. He held that lead to finish the match 4 and 3.

That six holes that Stan played has very few parallels in the history of this sport. Four under par for six tough holes is quite an accomplishment.

Eberfeld Actually Did Put the Game on Ice

Tobasco Kid Resorted to "Strategy" of Freezing Baseballs to Deaden Them.

By JACK TROY.
Doubtless, if you are old enough to read and have been following sports writings for any length of time, you have run across that naive expression, "Putting the game on ice."

But, perchance, did you ever hear of putting the baseballs on ice? That's something else.

The recent visit of Norman (Kid) Eberfeld, the Tobasco Kid, recalled to certain old-timers Kid's days with Little Rock and the year 1920, the year Little Rock, under the Kid, won its only Southern league pennant.

It seems that Kid Eberfeld had a ball club that was not particularly distinguished by excessive speed. In fact, the Travelers of those days were looked upon in some quarters as downright slow.

And so, the story goes that when the Kid found himself in a "tight" so to speak, he would resort to the ice box. He would take the baseballs and put them on ice.

And what effect did that have? Well, the sweating effect of the ice had a tendency to make the balls almost as dead as the famous dodo bird. And the baseballs of those days were none too lively at best.

Sluggers found that hitting the ice-box-treated baseballs was much the same as taking a healthy cut at a big round lemon.

PLENTY OF COLOR.
There was plenty of color connected with the old Tobasco Kid. He said he was not averse to resorting to a little trickery that might aid his pitchers, such as driving tacks in the seams of the ball in order to make them "sail."

But of all his famous stunts, none seems more ingenious than the business of putting the baseballs on ice. The old Kid had something on the ball, as we moderns put it.

Playing Managers Are Getting Scarce.

With Eddie Moore following Riggs Stephenson on the retired list, the Southern league now has only one playing manager.

Neil Caldwell, of Knoxville, is still holding down first base and playing every day.

Lance Richbourg, Nashville, is still able to play but is not on the active list, hasn't been all season.

So Neil Caldwell is the last of the player-manager species, at least for this season.

Necessity forced Stephens to apply for reinstatement and play second for the Barons yesterday, but he goes off the list again as soon as a replacement for the injured Jack Sanford reports.

Some New Phases When Moon Hurls.

Here are a few new phrases for use when Leo Moon pitches in the future.

If he should lose, one might say there was an eclipse of the Moon out at dear old Ponce de Leon.

Or if Moon and Rose both should have a great day, one might put in something about Moon-light and Rose.

The majority of the other phrases, such as the Moon coming over the mountain from Knoxville to Atlanta, and the Moon beaming and the Moon shining in the afternoon and the harvest Moon, are now, or should be, obsolete.

To these phrases, "It must have been Moon-glow," also must be delegated to the limbo of the lost.

At any rate, shine on, Harvest Moon. It's good to have somebody around that can make the baseball writers feel facetious.

High School Star Signed by Giants

HADDONFIELD, N. J., July 1. (P)—The New York Giants have signed Arthur Sinclair, Haddonfield High school pitcher, and sent him to Greenwood, Miss., of the Cotton State league, it was announced today.

Sinclair, a southpaw, averaged 12 strikeouts a game during the recent scholastic season.

BROWNS GET CATCHER.

ST. LOUIS, July 1.—(P)—Tommy Heath, 23-year-old catcher with Toronto, was recalled today by the St. Louis Browns, bringing their squad up to the 23-player limit. The team has two other catchers, Rollie Hemsley and Benny Huffman.

BREAK O' DAY

youth. I must stop a moment for him. For more than a year he was at Cayey. There were only Spanish schools. He was in the fourth grade.

He knew no Spanish. But he had to learn to do arithmetic in Spanish—and other studies as well. He used to come home and nearly have fits trying to divide and subtract and add and multiply—in Spanish. It must be done in the head and there must be words for it.

But he did it. And now, after a year in school, he speaks like a native and when he talks in his sleep he talks mostly in Spanish. And like as not, when talking to you, he will talk in Spanish and English—mixing them up. He's a most amazing young man.

They are all charming people and hoping some day to get back to Atlanta.

But to go on with the stories—

THE PAINTINGS.

We went today to the old fort. And into one of the tunnels. A sergeant, with barracks there, showed us the way.

Midway there was a dungeon to the right. It extended all the depth of the wall. At one end was a narrow slit through the outer wall—four feet to the light. Only a flicker of light could get in.

In there was confined—for a mutiny—a captain of the guards in the old Spanish days. That was 90 years ago. And he undertook to paint a row of Spanish galleons on the walls—a column of them—all headed toward the little slit in the wall through which came the sound of the sea. In his mind he was sailing them out of his prison to the freedom outside. They killed him. But today—90 years later—his galleons sail along the old wall—each perfect and each like the other to the smallest detail.

THE HAUNTED SENTRY BOX.

From one of the walls we peered down at the "haunted sentry box," far down below near the sea. It was built on a narrow ledge of rock jutting out into and above the sea. It is much painted and photographed. There is a sheer drop of 100 feet below it to the sea. And it does look odd and mysterious—with the sea pounding beneath it and the color of centuries in its stone.

The story goes that on a dark and stormy night the sentry's clothing was found—but of him not a trace.

There is another story, which the last Spanish commander told, which said that the man escaped—somehow—and deserted. But people always are spoiling good stories. I don't believe that. I think he disappeared that dark, stormy night, leaving all his things behind—vanishing in the night.

THE MIRACLES.

There are two miracles—one the story of the painting which hung in the well. When they removed it the well became dry. Later it was hung in the well and the water returned.

The second tells of more later days—in 1898.

The chapel was used in that day—when Sampson's guns were shelling the fort—to store a million rounds of ammunition. A shell from one of Sampson's guns entered the chapel and exploded at the feet of the statue of the virgin.

Not a round of the million rounds of ammunition was detonated.

There is another story—to close out the list. During that engagement a Spanish soldier was on watch at night on the ramparts. Suddenly a great ball of light covered him. He was sure a great shell had exploded, and leaped from the rampart, breaking his leg in the moat below.

What had happened was this—a searchlight from one of Sampson's ships had found him with its first lighting.

Barons Get Moore

From Macon Club

MACON, Ga., July 1.—(P)—Eddie Moore, Macon shortstop, has been recalled by the Birmingham club of the Southern Association.

President Roy Williams, of the Peaches, announced today.

Injury of the Birmingham shortstop in Wednesday's game at Knoxville forced the Barons to exercise their option on the Macon infielder, President Williams said, and Moore was to report to the Barons today.

The Peaches acquired Moore this spring from Savannah with whom he played last year. He was leading the league in stolen bases when the recall notice was received.

Al Rubeling will be shifted from center field to second base and Carl Fairly from second to short to fill the vacancy, according to telephone call from Manager Milton Stock in Columbus.

President Williams said the club will "stand pat" on the new infield combination, seeking a classy outfielder for the place on the roster left vacant by Moore.

Fishermen Praise

Protectors' Work

Fish and game protectors Hunter Dunn and B. Griffin are doing a splendid work on the Chattahoochee river, according to reports brought back by fishermen.

One fisherman who has trodden on the river reported that Dunn waited six hours in the bushes to see him bring them up and find out if he were using baskets or traps.

Use of either is in direct violation of the state law and violators are liable to prosecution. The work of these protectors is making fishing conditions ideal, anglers report.

Play in the women's doubles was marked by the defeat of the defending champions, Kay Stammers and Freda James, of England, who bowed to Mrs. Phyllis Mudford King and Joan Pittman, 6-1, 7-5. Moving along into the semi-finals with Mrs. King and Miss Pittman was the Franco-American duo of Mrs. Dorothy Andrus, of New York, and Stamford, Conn., and Mme. Sylvia Henrotin. They eliminated Miss Alex Moorstrich, of Ireland, and Joan Saunders, of England, 6-2, 7-5.

Individuals tonight were offering as high as $30 for a center court seat for tomorrow's men's final between Budge and Von Cramm.

Tomorrow's center court program, starting at 2 p. m. (8 a. m. eastern standard time), follows:
